Committee Favors Teachers' Oath Law Repeal

As had been expected by Representative Thomas A. Dorgan and other defenders of the Teachers' Oath Law, the legislative committee on education favored a measure today to repeal the law.

The committee met in executive session and voted to report the repeal proposal. The vote was nine to five. The report will go to the House, probably next week.

A lively battle is predicted on the floor of the House. The minority report may be offered in substitution for the repeal measure or the proponents of the law may fight to kill the repeal bill outright. They have not decided.

Favoring repeal were Senator Sybil Holmes of Brookline, Representatives Champoli of Springfield, Hutchinson of Lynn, Hedges of Quincy, Calentine of Chelmsford, Nourse of Bridgewater, Wright of Attleboro, Carlson of Worcester and O'Neill of Cambridge.

Chairman of the committee, Senator Albert Cole of Lynn opposed repeal, as did Senator Saint of Worcester, Representative Savage of Boston, Kerrigan of Fall River and Manning of Marlboro. Senator McSweeney of Salem did not vote.

When he learned about the vote today, Representative Dorgan smiled and said:

"Each of the last two years the committee on education has voted against the Teachers' Oath Law. But the Legislature was for it, both times. Why not now?"

DRIVER HELD BY COURT

Pinned beneath the wreckage of an automobile which overturned, Grace Keough, 24, of Blue Hill avenue, Roxbury, was fatally injured today on Fellsway West, near the Medford-Stoneham line.

The driver, according to police, was Charles Ogonosky, 25, of Park street, Dorchester.

Police said Ogonosky apparently misjudged a sweeping curve, while heading toward Boston, and the machine swerved into a cable fence, shot back onto the road and overturned.

A passing motorist, Harry Apostolos of New street, Haverhill, who was driving a short distance behind the Ogonosky car, pulled the young woman from beneath the wreckage.

He rushed the injured woman to the nearest hospital, the New England Sanitarium, where she died of a fractured skull two hours later without regaining consciousness.

Meanwhile Ogonosky was taken to the Middlesex Fellsway station of the Metropolitan police where he was treated for minor bruises and automobile charges were lodged against him.

Later before Judge Elbridge G. Davis in Malden district court he was arraigned on charges of manslaughter, driving under the influence of liquor and operating so as to endanger. He pleaded not guilty and was held in $1000 for continuance to March 25.

HURLEY O.K.'S TIMILTY BAN ON STRIKERS

Governor Hurley today supported Police Commissioner Joseph F. Timility's stand in refusing to reinstate Boston policemen who went on strike in 1919.

Five members of the Boston Social Club, the striking policemen's organization, appeared before the Governor at the State House with their petition for reinstatement on behalf of the other members of the club.

"While I sympathize with these men and their desire for reinstatement, I informed them the Police Commissioner has made his decision in this matter. I will abide by this decision."

The Governor referred to the statement made by Commissioner Timilty on January 29 when he definitely rejected the strikers' plea.

SEEKS YOUNG FORCE

At the time the commissioner stated that he planned to make new appointments to the police force but that one of his objectives was toma intain a department largely composed of young, vigorous and alert police officers.

He said that if he reinstated the striking officers it would raise the age average to the department to approximately 50 years and he concluded:

"Accordingly, in making these new appointments I have regretfully decided against restoring any of these men to duty.

"If this decision were indicated by my heart, I would restore them, but the oath of office I took is paramount. I have more than 600 applications on file from these former police officers.

COMMITTEE SEES HURLEY

"Unfortunately for them, the reinstatement of any of them would not be in accord with views I hold relating to the maintenance of an efficient police force."

Appearing before the Governor today were John F. Carey, chairman, George Ferreria, John Flavin, John Whitten and George Haffel.

Every year since the police officers went on strike in 1919 a similar petition has been made to the governor of the Commonwealth.

R. I. Mills Close Up in Sit-Strike

Strikes in Brief

CENTRAL FALLS, R. I.—Sit-strike of 600 in rayon mills ends unceremoniously when company announces indefinite shutdown. Strikers abandon seized plant.

BOSTON — CIO delays New England fight to solidify fronts.

DETROIT — United Automobile Workers of America and General Motors Corporation near final agreement; Chrysler strike injunction fight on Saturday.

CHICAGO — Underground freight tunnel workers end sit-down strike but others start; violence continues in taxi strike.

A sit-down strike of nearly 600 employes of the Waypoyset Manufacturing Company in Central Falls, R. I., came to an end today a short time after the management announced the plant would be closed down indefinitely and the employes "could sit if they want to sit."

The night shift of the plant, which is one of the largest rayon mills in the state, started their strike at 2 a. m., but walked out of the mill at about 11 a. m.

James C. Black, vice president and treasurer of the Waypoyset company issued the following statement:

"Because of greatly depressed market conditions it became necessary for us to close down the second shift at 11 o'clock last night and to post notices that the third shift would be discontinued Friday, the shutting down of both of these shifts to continue indefinitely. Neither shift will be resumed until the market improves.

"I have been informed of the trouble at the mill this morning, but there is nothing further to say than the foregoing, which

He was injured Monday on his dude ranch 40 miles southeast of Jackson, Wyo. He was flown to Idaho Falls by plane and brought to Pocatello in an ambulance.

SPRINGFIELD MAN HELD IN $7500

With the aid of a girl informant, federal authorities today smashed an alleged fake sweepstakes scheme which they claim has taken more than $400,000 from New England residents in the last four years.

John P. Cooley, 44, of Springfield and Longmeadow, was charged before U. S. Commissioner Harry N. Guterman with use of the mails in a scheme to defraud and interstate shipment of lottery tickets.

The girl, said to have been used to distribut tickets in Maine mill centers, was arrested last night in Portland, as she was about to board a bus for Boston.

SEIZED AT MIDNIGHT

Cooley was arrested outside the Hotel Statler by Inspectors Eldred Adair and John Manning of the police headquarters Bureau of Criminal Investigation shortly after midnight.

Postoffice Inspector Tennyson Jefferson and Assistant U. S. Attorney Harry M. Leen later were denounced in open court by Commissioner Guterman for holding Cooley incommunicado, preventing his lawyer from getting in touch with him, until this afternoon.

Neatly dressed, and with the appearance of a wealthy broker, Cooley was shortly afterward taken into the Federal Building, arrested on the warrant obtained from Commissioner Guterman and held in $7500 bail.

SAYS IT DIDN'T PAY

According to Inspector Jefferson he conducted a lottery called the Canadian National, Ltd., which offered prizes amounting to $179,750 but which, Jefferson said, never held drawings and never paid prized.

"He was given a suspended sentence in a state case, in Springfield, four years ago—a case of this same sort—and he has been conducting this present scheme for four years, according to my information," said the inspector.

"He was the whole thing. There was no Canadian connection. The tickets were printed in New York."

The girl, arrested in Portland, is said to have been jilted by one of the agents of the sweepstakes enterprise.

She was brought to Boston today but was not placed under any charge pending further investigation.

Cooley's case was continued for two weeks.

SEIZE TICKETS, STUBS

Cooley's arrest came after long investigation by postal inspectors, who last night asked police assistance. While Chief Postoffice Inspector John J. Breslin and Inspectors Cronin and Dakin were watching at a bus terminal for the girl, Inspectors Adair and Manning watched at the hotel.

The suspect had three automobiles, on all of which police had obtained the numbers, it was said. When he drove up, they placed their squad car in front of his and made the arrest.

Recovering a key, which they said was thrown from the car, they entered his hotel room and allegedly seized 500 tickets and stubs. According to federal agents, Cooley had been to the North station to contact a railroad employe.

Held As Racket Suspect

Carrying his necktie, hat, overcoat and jacket, John P. Cooley, of Springfield, was snapped at police headquarters today as he was guarded by Special Officer Eldred Adair, who assisted in his arrest. A few minutes later Cooley was on his way to the Federal Building to answer charges of using the mails to defraud and in an alleged fake sweeps racket.

Perry Admits Killing Officer in '27, Gets Life

Suddenly and dramatically the murder trial of 32-year-old Walter Perry halted today as he pleaded guilty to second-degree murder in the fatal shooting of Patrolman Harris McInnes, July 3, 1927.

Judge Frederick W. Fosdick of Suffolk Superior Court immediately sentenced Perry to life imprisonment.

The defendant also pleaded guilty to a charge of robbery, but this was filed.

Perry, a Charlestown man, who had escaped the shadow of the electric chair for 10 years because he was serving an armed robbery sentence in state prison when authorities thought he was in a hospital, wept as he made his plea.

Spectators were startled at the suddenness with which the case climaxed. The government was still putting in its case, having had 14 witnesses on the stand during the week.

Attorney Herbert Callahan, defense counsel, asked for a halt in proceedings. Then he and Assistant District Attorney Edward M. Sullivan went into a bench conference with Judge Fosdick in the judge's lobby.

When it was over and the judge had resumed his seat, Callahan hurriedly whispered to the defendant in his cage. Perry rose unsteadily, his lips trembling and made his plea.

Perry and a man named Collins, killed later in a New York automobile accident, shot Patrolman McInnes when he intercepted them robbing a laundry in the West End.

U. S. PROTEST ON 'INSULTS' SENT NAZIS

BULLETIN

Berlin, March 11 (INS) — Instructions have been received from the State Department at Washington to protest against German press attacks on America, it was confirmed today at the United States embassy.

The actual protest, however, had not yet been delivered to the German foreign office.

Washington, March 11 (INS)—Aroused over savage attacks in the Hitler-controlled German press on American persons and institutions, Secretary of State Cordell Hull today instructed Ambassador William E. Dodd, at Berlin to make an emphatic protest to the German government.

The protest followed publication in Der Angriff, official German organ controlled by German Propaganda Minister Goebbels, of unprintable attacks on American womanhood growing out of the recent incident in which Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia of New York criticized Chancellor Adolf Hitler.

Ambassador Dodd was instructed to make diplomatic representations in the strongest possible terms to the German government to halt these vituperative onslaughts.

WOMANHOOD ATTACKED

Secretary Hull expressed amazement at the vile language used in the German press. A complete transcript of articles appearing in Der Angriff was cabled to the State Department. Much of the

6 FRIENDLY JUSTICES ESSENTIAL TO COURT PLAN

MOVE OTHERWISE USELESS, ADMITS AID TO ATTY.-GEN.

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Washington, March 11—Assistant Attorney-General Robert H. Jackson, one of the New Deal's brightest legal luminaries, today frankly conceded President Roosevelt must name six friendly justices to the Supreme Court or his proposed judicial reform is useless.

It came after Jackson had devoted an hour to reading a prepared statement, assailing the Supreme Court for having become a "super-government" through decisions that whittled away the powers of both Congress and the state governments.

Jackson condemned the "frank hostility" of a majority of the high court's justices to all aims of the New Deal. He declared the justices were out of touch with the times and were denying the American people the right to have the kind of government for which they had voted overwhelmingly at the last three elections.

OPPOSES, RETRACTS

Jackson first gently opposed constitutional amendments, declaring after all they would be interpreted adversely by the high court.

He added:

"You cannot amend a hostile mind."

Under cross-examination, he finally conceded it would be proper to adopt constitutional amendments, but only in addition to the President's plan to enlarge the court. New justices are demanded, he said, because of the "cloud of legal doubt" hovering over the entire New Deal.

It was Senator Conally (D) of Texas, foe of the plan, who drew from Jackson the statement that the President's reform will fail unless the proposed six new justices are friendly to the New Deal.

"Doesn't it all boil down," he asked, "to the proposition that if you get six new judges under this legislation that will interpret the constitution as you see it, it's all right, and if you don't, then its all wrong?"

FRIENDLY JUDGES NEEDED

"No, I don't take that view. I am perfectly willing to take an adverse decision from an open-minded judge any time," replied Jackson.

"But, isn't it a fact that this legislation would be useless unless you get six judges of the kind that would take a view that you feel is the right one? Doesn't it all depend upon the judicial complexion of the men you select?"

"I think that is very largely true."

"Isn't it completely true?"

"Yes, I think so."

In justification of his statement, Jackson finally exploded:

"If the Cinstitution is what the judges say it is, then I think this generation ought to have a voice in saying what the construction is."

Asserting the Supreme Court has become a "super-government" through its decision, limiting the powers both of Congress and the States, Jackson today urged immediate adoption of President Roosevelt's program to inject "new blood" into the high tribunal.

Jackson declared the President's plan was constitutional and was necessitated by the refusal of a majority of the court to keep abreast with times.

He accused the court of thwarting the will of the people and imposing its private views as to the wisdom of legislation upon the rest of the country.

Jackson followed Attorney-General Cummings before the Senate Judiciary Committee, which is holding hearings on the President's plan in the large marble-walled caucus room of the Senate Office Building. A huge crowd jammed the room, with women predominating.

TELLS SOLONS TO ROAR

Senator King (D.) of Utah served notice he would ask the recall of Cummings for further examination by the committee. Cummings testified for an hour yesterday and was cross-examined for 75 minutes.

The hearing opened again on an amusing note. Senator Ashurst (D) of Arizona, dignified chairman, announced the acoustics of the room were inadequate, since several senators had complained they were unable to hear the attorney general yesterday. Ashurst then added:

"I would advise senators to roar like the Bull of Basham if they want to be heard."

Jackson described six previous changes in the size of the court which he said had never deprived it of independence or prestige. He said the constitutional fathers left the size of the court to be fixed by Congress, because they anticipated it would be changed from time to time.

"It is just as constitutional to add members to keep the court up with the country as to add members to keep the court up with its business," said Jackson. "The power of the Congress to avert constitutional stagnation is as great as its power to prevent congested dockets."

SAYS COURT NEEDS AID

Then Jackson pointed out how the high court must rely on Congress and the President, even to the extent of being provided with a court room. And, he added, its decisions must be enforced by Congress and the President.

"This power to reduce the Supreme Court to a mere phantom was not an accident," Jackson continued. "Our forebears knew the story of judicial abuse and tyranny as well as the story of legislative and executive abuses.

"These checks and balances were therefore embodied in the Constitution to enable Congress to check judicial abuse and usurpations."

SPEAKS OF COURT LIMITS

Declaring it was never intended that the Supreme Court should ever become a super-government, Jackson added:

"It is clear that Congress has the power to see that the personnel of the judicial system is adequate, both with respect to number and to the neutrality of attitude.

"It is a responsibility of Congress to see that the court is an instrumentality in the maintenance of a just and Constitutional government and that it does not become an instrumentality for the defeat of Constitutional government. The duty of cooperation is not cast upon Congress and the Executive alone.

Jackson frowned upon proposals to amend the Constitution.

"It may be possible by mere words to clarify words, but it is not possible by words to change a state of mind hostile to the exertion of governmental powers," he said. "Judges who resort to a tortured construction of the Constitution may torture an amendment. You cannot amend a state of mind and a mental attitude."

A "cloud of legal doubt now assails almost the entire New Deal," he said, reciting one New Deal law after another under attack in the courts.

He pointed out that the utility industry has "refused obedience unless and until the Supreme Court should have declared the law constitutional." He referred to the government being enjoined against enforcement of the law outlawing utility holding companies.

GOVERNMENT DEFIED

"No more threatening development in law enforcement has occurred than the sight of the government defied by the whole utility holding company industry, obliged to abdicate enforcment until a Supreme Court decision could be had," Jackson added.

"If this attitude shall spread, htne a subtle change has come about that transforms completely the function of the Supreme Court in our government."

"Experiments by the states with laws to settle industrial disputes, minimum wage acts, and acts to regulate public utility and other business enterprises were frequently stopped by the federal courts," he declared. "Had they been allowed to proceed, demands for the exercise of federal power later would have been less imperative.

"Is it any wonder that Justice Holmes said the sky is the limit?"

Finally Jackson charged a majority of the high court held "an implacable, although unquestionably sincere, opposition to the use of the national power to accomplish the policies so overwhelmingly indorsed by the voters."

"This frank hostility of these justices," he added, "has been counted on openly by interested groups to defeat much important legislation."

After reading his prepared statement, Jackson submitted to cross-examination by members of the committee.

Just as the attorney-general conceded yesterday, Jackson agreed there would be no lasting reform under the President's program unless the proposed six new justices cast votes friendly to the New Deal.

Senator O'Mahoney (D.), of Wyoming, pressed this point asking:

"Do you think the President's bill will prevent such divisions in the future?"

FUTURE UNCERTAIN

"This bill carries no assurance that there will not be a division of the court in the future," said Jackson. "Every new justice will be just as independent as any justice is today. This bill does not interfere with the independence of the justices, new or old."

Asked how the President could be sure new justices would vote for the New Deal, Jackson replied that it would bed ifficult to think of the President appointing and the Senate confirming new justices of conservative thought.

"But the decision in the AAA case was written by a justice not affected at all by this bill," O'Mahoney pointed out.

"Well, we have no guarantee against things like that," conceded Jackson.

Senator McCarran (D.) of Nevada next raised an interesting point—that the "confidence of the people constitutes the power of the court."

Dillinger "Woman In Red" Pleads To End Exile

Chicago, March 11 (AP)—"The woman in red" who lured Bandit John Dillinger to his death pleaded today from her exile in Rumania for re-entry to the United States.

Writing from the Balkan town of Timisoara where she is known as Dona Anna Cumpanasi, Mrs. Anna Sage asked a Chicago attorney to take the necessary legal steps to expedite her return.

Her attorney, who asked that his name be withheld, told Associated Press Mrs. Sage also had asked him to file reward claims totaling $5000 against five states—Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan and Wisconsin—for her part in the capture of Dillinger.

The Federal Government paid "the woman in red" $5000 shortly after she lured the desperado into the trap which police and Department of Justice agents had set July 22, 1934, outside a Chicago theater.

An immigration official said he did not believe the government would permit her to return because immigration laws prohibit re-entry of persons deported for immoral acts language, concerning LaGuardia was such as to be impossible of publication in the United States.

MRS. WISE PROTESTS

In expressing regret over the incident, Hull said the views of Mayor LaGuardia were those of a private citizen and did not express the official views of the United States government. He pointed out that the right of free speech is one of the fundamental institutions of the United States.

Hull's instructions to Ambassador Dodd followed receipt of a letter from Mrs. Stephen Wise, of New York City, chairman of the women's section of the American Jewish conference and wife of Rabbi Stephen Wise.

Mrs. Wise protested the vituperative attacks appearing in the German official press.

The State Department withheld text of the letter from Mrs. Wise and Secretary Hull's reply.

Mrs. Wise Demanded Disavowal of Insults

New York, March 11 (INS)—Mrs. Stephen S. Wise in her communication with Secretary of State Hull insisted that he demand a disavowal and expression of regret from the German government of the "deliberately insulting and false utterances" about American women appearing in the Nazi press.

Mrs. Wise, wife of Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, acted on behalf of the women's section of the American Jewish Conference of which she is chairman.

Mrs. Wise's telegram to the State Department was made public here in part:

"On behalf of the executive committee of the women's division of the American Jewish Conference meeting this day, March 8, I am instructed to call to the attention of the State Department the following:

"On Friday, March 5, the Nazi to the effect that 1200 women attending the luncheon of the women's division last Wednesday were 'women of the street' who were gathered together in order to be entertained by the mayor of New York.

"We assume you will call the attention of the American ambassador in Berlin to this insult levelled at 1200 American women exercising their right of free speech and seeking to safeguard their beloved country from Nazi policies and practices.

"Surely the State Department will insist upon a disavowal of this deliberately insulting and false utterance and an expression of regret from the Nazi government which is responsible for everything that appears in Nazi publications."

South Hadley, March 11 (AP)—An attack upon the limited town meeting form of government in force in this town for four years was launched today by Donald F. Moynahan, who obtained a temporary restraining order from superior court.

By this order town officials are to appear in court tomorrow to show cause why the town government form should not be declared void on ground of alleged irregularities in its acceptance by the voters.

50,000 REDS KILLED IN SPAIN

VON WIEGAND IN WAR ZONE

(Karl H. Von Wiegand, dean of the American correspondents, has just arrived at Salamanca, main headquarters of General Francisco Franco, to become the first newspaper reporter to cover the Spanish civil war from both sides.)

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND
(Dean of American War Correspondents)

World Copyright, 1937, by Universal Service. Reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.

Salamanca, March 11—In motoring from the French border at Irun 300 miles to Salamanca, I was quickly impressed by the greater orderliness, the smaller degree of excitement and uncertainty among the population and a far greater feeling of security than prevails in the Red regions of southern Spain.

Excepting the vicinity of Vitoria, where I passed within nine miles of the Bilbao front, which thrusts to the foot of the snow-covered mountains, I was stopped by very few patrols on the road, which had little traffic and a deserted aspect.

SPRING OFFENSIVE

We are on the eve of renewed efforts to break the stalemate in this savage civil war. Operations begun on the Siguenza front (northeast of Madrid) presage possible gradual development into General Franco's big spring offensive to completely encircle Madrid instead of renewing the costly frontal attacks on that "Red Verdun."

A brief survey of the military situation is thus essential to an appraisal of the chances of both sides as they will affect the final outcome and the duration of the struggle.

There are three main fronts, the many sectors of which aggregate 1200 miles. In the majority of these sectors operations at present are static.

The northern, or Asturian, front stretches along the coast from 12 miles west of nationalist-held San Sebastian to a point beyond government-controlled Gijon and besieged Oviedo in the northwest. This front is scarcely 100 miles deep at its deepest point, with the average depth between 50 and 60 miles.

MADRID ENCIRCLED

The central front comprises the sectors around Madrid and the battle lines running roughly from southeast of the capital through the vicinities of Toledo, Talavera de la Reina, Avila, El Escorial, Guadarrama, Somosierra, Villa Canamares, Jadraque and Siguenza. These lines describe a huge circle around Madrid broken only by the government-held gap directly east of the capital.

I was somewhat surprised to discover that Toledo, captured by the Nationalists last September during the epic siege of the Alcazar, is still within the range of Red artillery. The government field guns have fired an occasional shot into the arms factory on Toledo's outskirts which has been turning out ammunition for General Emilio Mola, Nationalist commander of the central and Asturian fronts.

The southern front, under the command of Nationalist General Queipo De Llano, embraces all sectors from Cadiz and Seville eastward to Malaga and northward to Jaen, and includes Granada and Cordoba.

A fourth line, sometimes called the eastern front, extends from the French border in the northwest through Huesca and Zaragoza to Teruel.

General Franco's southern army's advance along the south coast after taking Malaga has come to a standstill at Motril, apparently because of the dangers to the flank arising from activities of Red bands out of the nearby mountains.

BESIEGE 4 CITIES

The Reds are besieging Granada, Cordoba and Oviedo, but fierce fighting is now going on only at Oviedo among these three cities.

Of the important seaports on the north coast the Reds held Bilbao, Santander and Gijon. The Whites, or Nationalists, hold San Sebastian.

Of the Atlantic and Mediterranean ports, the whites possess Huelva, Cadiz, Algeciras, Malaga and the ports in the Balearic and Canarie Islands and Spanish Morocco.

The Reds hold Almeria, Cartagena, Alicante, Valencia, Tarragona and Barcelona.

General Franco claims control of 33 provinces with 13,000,000 inhabitants, including the Balearics, the Canaries and Spanish Morocco, as against the Red regime's control of 17 provinces with 9,500,000 people.

5000 REDS KILLED

On the mainland of Spain the proportion of territories seems to lie at about 55 per cent for the Nationalists against 45 for the large Caballero Red government, or perhaps 53 per cent against 47.

The manpower of Spain has scarcely been touched by either side as yet, and as far as the potential fighting men are concerned, this bitter struggle could continue for a long time.

Out of more than 22,000,000, well-informed foreign military observers here estimate, not more than 500,000 men on both sides are at the war fronts. Some place this figure at not more than 450,000.

General Franco now has considerable numerical superiority. A scarcity of officers, non-commissioned leaders, arms and equipment has kept the drafts of men low.

The dead on the battlefields are not very high in number on the Nationalist side, while it is estimated the Reds have lost more than 50,000 dead. These are exclusive of many thousands of Whites killed in Red territory and "reprisal executions after trials" of Nationalists by Reds.

Nationalist Spain can be said to have one central government and that government is authoritative everywhere throughout nationalist territory.

It has a unified central military command directing all nationalist armies in the field.

The so-called Red Spain has three or four governments co-operating loosely. After eight months of the civil conflict, Premier Caballero has not yet been able to force establishment of a unified central command for the direction of the Red armies.

Rebels Make Big Gains As Spain Reds Retreat

By the Associated Press

Three Insurgent columns were reported today to have captured more than 100 square miles of government territory in the Guadalajara sector and to have advanced within sight of the provincial capital, 32 miles northeast of Madrid.

An entire battalion of "red lion" government defenders, dispatches to Insurgent headquarters at Soria said, was wiped out and government troops were in disorderly retreat towards the city of Guadalajara and Madrid.

REDS ADMIT RETREAT

Forty-one Italian war prisoners, reputedly captured on the Guadalajara front from two divisions—the "Temeraria" and "Black Feathers"—were displayed at military headquarters at Madrid.

Insurgent officials at Salamanca announced officially the freighter Mar Cantabrico, heavily laden with munitions purchased in America for the Spanish government, had been sunk.

FRENCH WARN REBELS

The freighter and her $2,700,000 cargo previously had been reported taken to Ferrol, Spain, after the cruiser Canarias had prevented her from running the insurgent blockade.

French naval and aerial units on the west and south coast of France were ordered on uninterrupted duty to back up a warning to insurgent Spain to keep naval warfare out of French territorial waters.

The order followed an attack by an insurgent armed trawler on a Spanish government freighter, the Conde De Zubiria, close to French waters and in the ocean lanes off the island of Ouessant.

Did She Shock Drake's Faculty?

BUT DEAN SAYS IT'S ALL O.K.

Rudy Vallee Protege

Des Moines, Ia., March 11—So Heloise Martin, Drake University junior, will not be expelled, after all.

College officials, checking up the reason for the appearance of her photograph in a national magazine, showing, among other poses, "In the Invigorating Chill of a Cold Shower," discovered that it originated with the publicity department.

Blames Artist

There was a slight mixup in that bathing picture, however, Miss Martin explained. They were supposed to show only her shoulders and she was done wrong by. Anyway, she said:

"I posed in the shower in a flesh leotard, which is similar to a bathing suit."

Dean of Women Carrie Cubbage said today no action would be taken by the university.

Miss Martin is a member of the student council, chairman of the school social committee, a member of Beta Gamma sorority, and a friend of the Dean.

She's Dancer

Miss Martin is a New York dancer who came to Drake University because Rudy Vallee told her she ought to have a college education, she says.

Among the other titled photos which appeared in the magazine were "Rising in the Morning," "Good Form in Archery," "The Lingering Reality of a Goodnight Kiss," and "Dressing."

Premier of Japan In Bomb-Proof "Secret House"

Tokyo, March 11 (AP)—Premier Senjuro Hayashi moved today into his new specially built official residence, described by its architects as "assassin proof."

The $28,000 "house of secrets" is honeycombed with subterranean passages, secret exits, mysterious doors and disappearing floors and has a number of bomb proof rooms with floors and walls impervious to bullets.

Not even his wife will know in what part of the house he sleeps, Hayashi declared.

The premier took up his residence in the house alone, forbidding his family to join him until the present session of Parliament ends and lessens the fear of an assassination attempt growing out of Japan's tense political situation.

Ct. Crash Kills 2, 2 Seriously Hurt

Brookfield, Ct., March 11 (INS)—Two persons were killed today and two others were seriously injured when their automobile was in collision with the rear of a truck on the Danbury-New Milford highway here.

The dead were Miss Helen Camp, 30, and Robert Gilcrest, 26, both employes of the Newton State Hospital. Police reported that Gilcrest was killed almost instantly and Miss Camp died on the way to Danbury Hospital.

The injured were Dr. Bishop, Nashua, N. H., driver of the car, who is in the hospital with possible internal injuries and cuts and bruises, and Mrs. Egan Benson, also employed at Newton Hospital. She suffered a fractured jaw and left arm.

London Paper Says King George Ill

London, March 11 (UP)—A similar censorship concerning the health of King George VI, more dangerous than that concerning the King Edward-Mrs. Simpson crisis is now in operation it is charged by "The Week."

This privately circulated review played a prominent part during the abdication crisis. The paper says:

"This self-imposed censorship is even more comprehensive and possibly more full of danger for the monarchy even than the clamping down of the safety valve on the Simpson situation almost up to the eve of the abdication itself."

WALLY Talks to SCRIBES

PLANS TO SHOP IN PARIS

By JAMES BROWN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Tours, France, March 11—Gayer and more attractive than ever, with a schoolgirl sparkle in her eyes and a continual smile on her lips, Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson received three American newspapermen in the library of the Chateau de Cande today.

She chatted informally and animatedly of golf and horseback riding and of the situation in Spain.

But it had been stipulated she was not to be quoted, and by this stipulation this correspondent and the two others admitted were compelled to abide.

Simple Dress

Mrs. Simpson was dressed in a blue woolen dress with low-cut neck, blue shoes and flesh-colored stockings. Only a sapphire ring on the third finger of her right hand and two golden clips at her neck offset the plainness of her attire.

Rogers conducted us to the library where his wife and Mrs. Bedaux were sitting on a comfortable divan before a roaring fire.

Rogers produced sherry and cigarettes and in a few moments Mrs. Simpson entered the book-lined room. After shaking hands all around and discussing mutual acquaintances, Mrs. Simpson spoke of her automobile ride from Cannes and smiled when we told her how hard we had worked to trace her movements.

One of us was recently back from Madrid, and Mrs. Simpson displayed keen interest in the Spanish situation, expressing pity with the plight of the Spanish people.

She showed disappointment over the fact the crack Bedaux golf course is partially flooded, but said she would make up for this by riding and hiking. She admitted, however, she is not an enthusiastic horsewoman.

To Buy Clothes

When Mrs. Simpson retired for luncheon, Rogers took occasion to deny reports the Duke of Windsor is considering renting or buying the chateau as their future place of residence.

"There is no question of any such thing," he said. "Mr. and Mrs. Bedaux were very kind to invite us here.

"For the present, Mrs. Simpson does not plan to visit Paris, but it will be natural for her to do so for the capital is not far away. She is not considering purchasing a trousseau, but she of course will buy clothes—all women love to buy clothes in Paris, and this is the season.

"We are hopeful the golf course will soon dry out because Mrs. Simpson loves to play. In the meantime she will get her exercise walking."

Duke's Pro May Coach Wally

Monts, France, March 11 (AP)—The veteran Scotch golf professional, Walter Cunningham, who knows the game as played by the British royal family, was ready today to coach Wallis Warfield Simpson in the fine points used by the Duke of Windsor.

Cunningham, who is well acquainted with the private links of the Chateau de Cande where Mrs. Simpson is a guest, declined to say if he had been engaged to teach the Duke of Windsor and his fiancee their favorite sport.

He added, however, "I am around here if needed."

Wally to Seek Franch Divorce in Case of Delay

London, March 11 (INS)—Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson has instructed her lawyers to apply for an absolute decree of divorce as soon as the six-month period provided for in the decree nisi granted her at Ipswich has elapsed, the magazine Cavalcade stated today.

In the event the application should be refused, which is not expected, the magazine said, Mrs. Simpson will file a new suit for divorce in the French courts.

Cavalcade declared the Duke of Windsor has now consented to postpone his marriage to Mrs. Simpson until after the coronation of King George, although he is "fed up" with his lonely life in Austria.

'Nutty' Plan of Teaching Under Fire

Roslyn, N. Y., March 11 (AP)—The "progressive education" system of having nut-bread baking classes to teach boys arithmetic—as opposed to the old-fashioned "three R's" method—had parents of this Long Island community split in stormy controversy today.

A protest meeting of 400 persons before the board of education last night touched off the long-smouldering dispute, with grim-lipped fundamentalists airing their views about "new-fangled" and "highfalutin" innovations in no uncertain terms.

Eugene McLean, champion of the anti-progressives, said nearly five hours had been spent one day to teach a group of boys in the Roslyn Heights School how to bake nut bread.

And in a voice tinged with bitter irony, he asked to be informed what possible connection nut-bread baking had with education. He stressed the word "nut" in a manner to suggest it summed up the whole situation.

SYSTEM EXPLAINED

"Why," he said darkly, "I questioned several high school students and they couldn't even tell me where Albany was."

A ripple of applause swept the auditorium, and there were exclamations of "the idea!" and "well, really!" when Superintendent of Schools Frederick Wegner explained about nut-bread baking and arithmetic.

Nut-bread baking, said Wegner, was a good way of teaching arithmetic because "it gives the pupils practice in adding and multiplying ingredients."

The explanation left some of the fundamentalists cold.

"You multiply four eggs by three cups of flour, and what have you got—even adding nuts?" demanded one fundamentalist sourly, in an aside to a neighbore.

CHILDREN UNTAUGHT

The progressive method, adopted eight years ago in the Roslyn Union Free School district and gradually expanded, drew further fire from Mrs. Mary Broadhurst, who said she was considering the withdrawal of her grandchild from the second grade and teaching the child herself.

Other opponents of the system complained that the pupils were woefully lacking in history, spelling, reading, writing and yes, even arithmetic despite the nut-bread baking classes.

Ralph Tubby, president of the board of education, assured the protesting taxpayers that the board would give the matter careful consideration.

Meanwhile, the town's bakeries diplomatically removed nut-bread from their window displays. It was a sore topic.

Bugs Baer Gets Thrill But Little Real 'Info'

Monte Prosser, New York press agent, who believes in giving a friend a hand, is speeding westward today, the only man in a party of 10 beautiful New York girls.

He is escorting them to Hollywood "as a favor for a friend"—believe it or not.

The beauties, billed as "the most photographed girls in the world," are advertising models chosen for their ability to wear clothes well.

They are to appear in a picture. Rodney Bush chose them from more than a thousand applicants. And when the troupe was complete he found himself in a dilemma. Business required his presence in New York and there was no one to see that the girls reached Hollywood safely.

He approached Prosser who, as press agent for a girl revue, is more or less an authority on beautiful women. Did he have to urge Prosser? Oh, well, why bring that up?

This will be the first chance of any of the girls in the movies. Headed by Betty Wyman, well-known model, they include college graduates and Junior League members. And this is what "Bugs" Baer says about the trip.

Parting Is Such Sweet Publicity

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Copyright, 1937, by Universal Service

New York, March 11—Ten of the most beautiful gals in the world left Grand Central today for Hollywood. And the man in the info kiosk didn't know a single telephone number.

* * *

They are models, debs, college grads, young, pretty, coy, modest and appealing. And the punk in the question alcove didn't know whether they could cook or not.

* * *

Believe it or not, they claimed to be waiting for a railroad car. And, Ripley or imitators, so they were.

* * *

All of the models are going to get famous in Wanger's "Vogues of 1938." And the Delphic oracle in the interrogatory booth never heard of them before.

They are being chaperoned to Hollywood in a private car by Monte Prosser, who is a press agent and just about pretty enough to pose for a dog collar ad. About five hundred of the handsomest collegians who ever graduated from the Baltimore dairy lunch waved goodbye to the girls and tried to buy Monte's seat from a speculator.

* * *

"See that one with the big eyes?" said Monte. "She has worn more expensive furs and gowns than any woman, man or child in the world. Watch her walk."

* * *

We watched her walk and it looked like she was modeling for the Cuban ski-jump, better known as the rhumba.

* * *

"The other nine," said Monte, "are so beautiful they will run Joan Crawford until her ears dip sand. And they have such terrific figures they will make Marlene Dietrich wear hip length rubber boots in her next picture."

* * *

"Any strip teasers among them?" we asked the man in the advise-to-the-commuters annex.

* * *

"What's a strip teaser?" he wanted to know.

* * *

When the man in an information booth starts asking questions of the customers that's the time to push him off the educational wharf. From now on we handle the situation.

* * *

The girls are: Betty Wyman, Libby Harben, Mary Deakes, Ida Vollmer, Dorothy Day, Katherine Aldridge, Frances Joyce, Ruth Martin, Norene Carr and Phyllis Gilman. Every one has been featured on billions of magazine covers ers and billboards. They all combine charm, intelligence and beauty. That's mixing up the prescriptions a bit, but why should the doctor quarrel with the druggist?

* * *

When they get to Hollywood they will be joined by 32 other girls, just as beautiful, who also combine those three feminine R's, pulchritude, intuition and expensive perfumes. Then Monte Prosser will come back for another carload of models, water them every ten hours and throw them a bale of hay twice a day.

* * *

The 500 boys who waved goodbye to the ten most beautiful models did not burst into tears. But neither did the girls.

* * *

If it hadn't been the Grand Central, if the man in the info booth hadn't ben so dumb, and if it actually hadn't been the 20th Century, we would have sworn it was only a rehearsal.

* * *

But the train pulled out, Monte Prosser and the girls waved goodbye and 500 boy friends walked slowly back up the ramp, wiping lipstick off their chins, necks and ears. In the old days the girls were better judges of distance.

* * *

Parting is such sweet publicity.

POPE CALLS AIDS; HINTS DEATH NEAR

Copyright, 1937, by International News Service

Vatican City, March 11—Active, despite his infirmities, Pope Pius today convened 26 cardinals of the Roman Curia to lay the groundwork for organization of the Catholic church throughout the new Roman empire.

Although the session officially was called to discuss plans for the spread of Catholicism on the dark continent of Africa, International News Service was authoritatively informed the invalid Pope took occasion to remind the princes of the Roman church that he has not much time left for settling important affairs.

HINTS DEATH NEAR

He expressed a wish to call a consistory and name new cardinals to fill existing vacancies in the College of Cardinals.

The Pontiff's hint that he feels death cannot be far off for him was accentuated by unusual precautions taken to guard him from drafts which might cause him to catch cold—a development his personal physician, Dr. Aminta Milani, has long feared owing to the Pope's weakened condition.

The cardinals present included members of the congregations of Oriental affairs, of propaganda and the congregation of extraordinary ecclesiastical affairs.

HEAVILY BLANKETED

It was the first time these three groups have been convened in a single session in 10 years.

Pope Pius, heavily blanketed, reclined in his specially built chair, which was placed in a central position at the foot of the table.

Bouncing Lightning Most Severe

Albuquerque, N. M., March 11 (AP)—Some lightning "bounces."

Dr. E. J. Workman, University of New Mexico physicist, told the Society of American Foresters here, the upward stroke in this sort of lightning, is usually the more severe.

"Bouncing" lightning, Dr. Workman explained, originates in a single, relatively weak down stroke, or "path maker," which literally blazes a trail through the air.

The return stroke, generally of far greater intensity and speed, almost instantaneously flashes from ground to cloud, following in reverse precisely the same crooked path of ionized air which the first down stroke pursued.

The effect is much like that of a bouncing ball, except that the lightning bounces back harder than it comes down.

R. I. MILL SHUT; EDICT IS "LET SITTERS SIT"

was the reason for the curtailment.

"Due to the sit-down we have closed the plant entirely. There will be no production."

One hundred employes of the Waterbury Battery Co., at Waterbury, Ct., who also went on a sit-down strike today, asking an increase of 10 cents an hour, were given similar treatment.

They were offered a raise of five cents an hour, by the president, Martin Marcus. When they refused it, Marcus told them they could occupy the plant as long as they wanted but he would not give in to them.

Three departments of the Talbot Worsted Mills at Billerica were reported closed as a result of a strike of 40 picker-room employes for wages of $22 a week, instead of lower wages with bonus provisions. These employes started a sit-down strike yesterday, but gave up those tactics and were awaiting the outcome of negotiations.

CIO DELAYS N. E. FIGHT

Due to the necessity of doing more organization work, before a showdown with the mill owners, John L. Lewis, head of the CIO, has deferred bringing matters to a head in the textile field.

The chief reason for the delay is the disclosure to Lewis, at conferences during the past few days in Washington, that his lieutenants were not ready for a show of strength in Lawrence, the largest woolen and worsted center.

Between 300 and 400 organizers are being flung into the textile centers immediately, with special attention being given to Lawrence.

Francis J. Gorman, president of the United Textile Workers, named the American Woolen Company, which has several plants in Greater Lawrence, as the focal point of activities.

TO BLANKET N. E.

Another New England objective is the Cheney Manufacturing Company's silk and rayon mills at Manchester, Ct. Others are the New Bedford and Fall River mills, the Rhode Island plants and the New Hampshire and Maine factories.

A fund of $500,000 has been allotted by Lewis for the textile drive.

The aim is to enlist, under CIO banners, the 1,250,000 workers in the woolen, worsted, cotton, yarn, carpet, silk, rayon, rug, clothing and other textile, or textile-related, industries.

Anthony Valenti, secretary-treasurer of the Federation of Woolen and Worsted Workers of America, just back from the Washington conferences, said demands for a 20 per cent wage increase, with an $18 minimum and a 36-hour work week, would be presented to the mill owners soon. Previous plans called for presentation of demands this week.

The J. F. McElwain Shoe Company, employing 400 in Nashua and Manchester, N. H., announced a five per cent wage increase, the second this year.

A raise of 10 per cent, fourth raise this year, was granted 450 employes of the Peter Paul Candy Co., Naugatuck, Ct.

Boston Messenger boys of the Western Union, 400 in number, organized themselves last night as a branch of local 78 Association of Western Union Employes, and prepared the following demands:

Puttees to be discarded, except for boys using bicycles; company to supply shirts for winter as well as summer; boys to receive 60 per cent of errand-service charges, instead of 40 percent; establishment of a minimum wage.

DEMAND

Double Value

WHEN BUYING MUSTARD

Women who insist on quality demand a double-value mustard—not only appetizing on cold meats, sandwiches and frankfurters but also with a liveliness of flavor that blends perfectly with food even in cooking. The only Prepared Mustard that meets this test is Gulden's.

That lively yet smooth, mellow flavor is due to the distinctive Gulden blend of finest-quality mustard seeds and spices in exactly the right proportions. It does wonders for broiled ham when you spread it liberally on the ham before broiling.

GULDEN'S The Double Value MUSTARD

AS I SEE IT

By DAMON RUNYON

Copyright, 1937, by King Features Syndicate, Inc. International and all other rights reserved.

It is frequently charged by married gentlemen that their careers have been retarded because their wives are "wedded to a pay check."

By this the married gentlemen mean that the wives are so greatly in love with a regular salary that they will not hear of their husbands taking any chance that might jeopardize the salary.

Damon Runyon

We have often heard married gentlemen, who are working for somebody else, say they would have made great strides in the world had they not been deterred from cutting loose from a pay roll by their wives' fear of the consequences.

These married gentlemen say that by making changes at the right time, by gambling with opportunity, they would have achieved success and independence. But the wife said no, if we are to credit the married gentlemen.

The wife burst into tears. She said what will become of me? She said how will we pay the grocer if you are not getting a regular salary, and what about the next payment on the car, and the radio? And, furthermore, Mother says you are pretty lucky to have a good job when so many better men are out of work.

Believe Fable

So the married gentlemen have gone on working for somebody else, and they will probably go to their graves firmly believing that they would have been free and independent operators, and big men, had their wives not been "wedded to a pay check."

We find this charge of married gentlemen against their wives so general that it is a pleasure to be able to refute it, to some extent, by presenting the mesdames Lou Gehrig and Dizzy Dean.

These ladies are the better three-quarters of two of the most eminent exponents of our national obsession, the game of baseball. You may not be a reader of the sports pages, so we will explain that Mr. Lou Gehrig is the first baseman of the New York Yankees, and Mr. Dizzy Dean is a pitcher for the St. Louis Cardinals.

Mr. Dizzy Dean is renowned for the fact that he is a right-handed pitcher who thinks left-handed. Mr. Lou Gehrig recently attained some notoriety by threatening to play the part of Tarzan, until he was convinced that this nation cannot stand for more than one Tarzan at a time.

Each Asks $50,000

They are baseball players of great value to their respective nines. They are each demanding of their employers a salary for the season of 1937 of $50,000.

We would not suggest that the reader stand on his, or her head until they get $50,000, but that is not the point. The point is that it has developed that the mesdames Lou Gehrig and Dizzy Dean are believed to be prompting their husbands in these demands.

Indeed, Mrs. Dizzy Dean frankly admits that she is behind her husband, though not, we conjecture, so far behind him that she cannot place a restraining hand on the scruff of his neck any time she deems it necessary.

There is no direct testimony to support the suspicion that Mrs. Lou Gehrig is behind Mr. Lou Gehrig in this matter, other than the impression that lone, and unaided, Mr. Lou Gehrig might not be able to think of as much as $50,000.

In any event, here are two wives who are certainly not wedded to a pay check in the sense that the married men we have been talking about mean.

Mr. Lou Gehrig can get $35,000, or thereabouts, for the season's work from Colonel Jake Ruppert, the affable New York brewer, who owns the Yankees.

$25,000 for Diz

Mr. Dizzy Dean may not be able to get as much from the owners of the St. Louis Cardinals, as they do not have a brewery running for them. But it is our surmise that he can get around $25,000. Is that hay?

Left to their own devices, and without the mesdames Gehrig and Dean, the messrs. Gehrig and Dean would probably be knocking down partitions to sign their contracts at the paltry wage offered. There is not enough difference between $35,000 and $50,000 to the average ball player to quibble about.

And we must add, that many wives would probably be urging their husbands to accept the terms lest an earthquake befall and destroy the papers.

Of course, the messrs. Gehrig and Dean will eventually adjust their financial differences with their club owners, and at the usual reduction in the asking price. It may have happened ere this appears in print.

We only hope that the reduction is not too great to destroy the refutation by the mesdames Gehrig and Dean of the charge of the married gentlemen that wives in general are wedded to a pay check.

We have always admired the gallant attitude of a married friend of ours by the name of Burke, who is a pretty smart business man, and has had many opportunities to strike out on his own, but who has stuck to the same salaried job for years.

We asked him why, one day, and he said:

"Well, you see, my wife, Veronica, don't like for me to be without a regular salary, and what my wife don't like, I just naturally hate."

Chinese Convicted Of Poisoning Two

GENERAL MOTORS AND UNION DUE TO SIGN WAGE PACT

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN

International News Service Staff Correspondent

Detroit, March 11—With 85,000 to 90,000 automobile workers on strike, a big department store closed by a "sit-down," and a rash of smaller strikes breaking out all over the city, Detroit today was in the throes of a labor crisis.

The situation was so involved and uncertain that the best anybody could do was to conjecture as to what might happen.

Indications were that General Motors Corporation and the Automobile Workers' Union would sign their minimum wage agreement today.

MURPHY'S HANDS OFF

Governor Frank Murphy, who aided in obtaining the agreement that ended the General Motors strike, Feb. 11, returned to Detroit from a Florida vacation today. He announced the state would not intervene in the Chrysler situation "unless it lasts a long time or the public interest is adversely affected in some serious manner."

He spent less than an hour in Detroit before going to the state capital, Lansing, where a new sit-down strike last night closed the plant of the Reo Motor Car Company. The union claimed half the 2200 employes are occupying the factory.

The management announced today it had refused a UAWA demand for exclusive bargaining rights.

Negotiations between the Chrysler Corporation and the United Automobile Workers reached a serious stage as a result of the action of the company in instituting court procedure designed to oust the strikers who have taken over eight Chrysler plants in the Detroit area.

On Saturday next the issue will come to a head when union officials must show cause before Circuit Judge Allan Campbell why the strikers should not be forced to evacuate the Chrysler plants which they have seized.

G. M. MAY SIGN TODAY

The Hudson Motor Car Company flatly broke off relations with the union when they spurned the demand that the UAW be recognized as the sole bargaining agency for the employes. About 10,000 Hudson workers are affected by the strike in this plant alone.

A bright spot in the drab situation was the indication that General Motors Corporation would sign an agreement today with the union fixing a minimum hourly wage, one of the big stumbling blocks in the recent 44-day General Motors strike.

Union demands for complete recognition of the UAW as the exclusive bargaining agency for automotive workers in Chrysler and Hudson plants held up strike settlement negotiations.

The filing of the court injunction stalled negotiations with Chrysler and at the Hudson plant peace talk ceased abruptly when the company officials last night emphatically refused to accede to the union spokesmen's demands.

VOTE IS DECLINED

Chrysler officials, however, agreed to meet again with union officials but relations between both sides were considerably strained. Company officials refused a "peremptory" demand of the union for a vote "now" on the extent of union membership among Chrysler workers.

Events which led up to the Chrysler Corporation requesting an injunction ejecting the sit-downers were outlined by a company spokesman who said:

"The strikers have been percards. Non-union men have been mitting outsiders to enter the plants. We have a specific instance of a man and a woman getting in and making speeches to office workers at the De Soto plant.

"Company badges have been taken away from employes and have been replaced by union edged out of the pay line and have been unable to get their wages.

BAN ON DRINKING

"Company officials have been kept out of some of the plants and the entire office force of the Plymouth was forced out. We have found it impossible to conduct our general administrative work in our own office."

Strikers have organized a form of military police patrols in the vicinity of the Chrysler and Hudson plants. The patrols visit saloons and beer gardens, and any union men seen drinking are ordered to return to their homes.

Public attention directed toward the automobile strikes was shifted when employes of Crowley, Milner & Co., the second largest department store in Detroit, staged a strike.

The strike went into effect when 150 waitresses left their posts. Union officials permitted customers to leave the store, but refused to allow any person to enter.

REO PLANT STRIKE

A union spokesman said the strikers demanded recognition of the Waiters' and Waitresses' Union and an increase in pay.

Strikers took over the store's food supply. Mattresses for the strikers who remained in the building overnight were provided by the waiters' union.

In Lansing, Mich., between 2,000 and 2,500 employes of the Reo Motor Car Company were thrown out of work by a sit-down strike which followed two days of futile negotiations between the company and UAW. It was the first time in Reo's 33 years of business.

The union demands included recognition of the UAW as sole bargaining agency, strict seniority, an eight-hour day and 40-hour week, a new minimum wage and time and one-half for overtime.

19 Plants Closed In Hosiery Strike

Reading, Pa., March 11 (AP)—The Berks county hosiery strike spread to two additional mills, one of them the second largest in the county.

The new strikes last night raised to 19 the number of plants closed.

In court, five hosiery workers fought charges of inciting to riot in an outbreak at the Berkshire Knitting Mills, where a strike has continued since October 1. Counsel told a jury "if any riot occurred it was caused by the police."

Scores Injured in New California Strike Riot

Alameda, Cal., March 11 (AP)—Every available police officer was detailed for duty at the California Packing Corporation plant here today to guard against repetition of a riot in which more than a score of persons were injured.

Tear gas and rocks were hurled; clubs and fists were freely used as police and pickets battled yesterday at the plant where the warehousemen's union, an AFL affiliate, has been attempting to organize employes.

Jobless Sit Fails; Shift WPA Strike

Spokane, Wash., March 11 (AP)—Unable to sit their way to victory over the federal government, 88 unemployed pledged themselves to go on a hunger strike today for Works Progress Administration jobs—after breakfast.

For 15 days they sat and ate in Spokane Works Progress Administration headquarters in a futile effort to force extension of Works Progress Administration employment rolls and recognition of the workers' alliance as sole collective bargaining agency.

Killer Will 'Never Drink' if Paroled

Pleading that the murder he committed 25 years ago was while he was under the influence of liquor, and promising that he would never drink again, Charles Malrony, State Prison "lifer," asked for his freedom today.

Supporting the petition, at a hearing before the State Board of Pardons and Paroles, in State Prison, were a score of residents of New Bedford and Bristol, R. I., including several police officials. There was no opposition.

Malrony, now 49, pleaded guilty to second degree murder in the axe slaying of one Anna Walsh on the barge Snipe at New Bedford. The convict said that he had no recollection of the killing—even did not know his victim.

BRITAIN WANTS NO U. S. WAR TRADE CURB

By KINGSBURY SMITH

Copyright, 1937, International News Service.

London, March 11—Great Britain feels that the general European situation has eased considerably and there is no immediate danger of a general conflagration.

United States Ambassador Robert Worth Bingham, it was understood, gathered this impression in a half hour's conversation with Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden today.

The two diplomats had a general discussion touching economics, world peace and American neutrality.

Regarding neutrality, International News Service understands, the British feel that unless they can be assured of freedom to purchase—on a cash and carry basis if necessary—supplies in America in time of war, it will be necessary to divert peace-time trade from America to other sources where supplies would be available in war time.

PINS HOPE ON NAVY

There is reason to believe the British would be satisfied if American neutrality legislation includes a cash and carry plan which would make certain that Americans no longer had any interest in goods leaving here for belligerent countries—rather than any complete cessation of trade with warring nations.

Britain, it was pointed out, feels that its navy is powerful enough to protect its trade with America if Britain becomes involved in a war with any third parties.

Ambassador Bingham, it was understood, also gave Eden President Roosevelt's latest ideas on international economics and politics as outlined when the ambassador was in Washington recently.

PEACE CONFERENCE HINT

Bingham, it was learned, has received no instructions even to discuss the possibility of an international conference.

Instead, it was revealed, he will convey "other ideas" to Eden—ideas which President Roosevelt had in mind when he conferred with the Ambassador, but the nature of which is a closely guarded secret.

Ambassador Bingham also will report back to the White House regarding Eden's views of the general European situation.

London, March 11 (AP)—Sir Samuel Hoare, first lord of the admiralty, told the House of Commons today that Great Britain, by the end of the year "will have under construction 146 new warships."

Sir Samuel introduced the 1937 naval estimates. These call for 80 more new ships to cost $525,000,000. With the ships already started these will bring the total to 148 under construction by the end of 1937. They will include five capital ships, four aircraft carriers and 17 cruisers.

"We are forced," said Sir Samuel, "to telescope into two or three years what normally ought to be carried out in a decade."

"Past deficiencies" forced this acceleration of the naval phase of Britain's five-year $7,500,000,000 defense program. He predicted the ship-building program would be carried out without delay.

"We shall have the material for construction and, when the ships are built, we shall have the men to man them," he cried.

Every preparation, he said, has been made to learn "the lessons of war."

"In recent years there have been experiments, often of the most secret kind, with every type of explosive upon every kind of material," he said.

"Our counter-action to the threat from the air has included the fullest use of airpower itself and the production of anti-aircraft weapons on a scale undreamed of in 1918."

Members of the House of Commons leaned forward eagerly to hear Sir Samuel declare:

"Now, henceforth, there can be no rivalry between the American and British navies! Nor can there be any race between German and British naval armaments!"

U. S. Speeds Check of Income Returns

Washington, March 11 (AP)—Treasury officials said today revenue agents would get around earlier than usual this year to check up on income tax returns.

Field examinations will begin July 1 and will take 12 months. Formerly the examinations were not started until the next January 1, but an increase in personnel made possible the advance.

Longevity's Reward

Adelaide, Australia, March 11 (AP)—Mrs. J. B. Curry, 90, has a new black dress. Back in 1867 Mrs. Curry was the first customer in a newly opened department store. The management presented her with an outfit of clothing and told her if she came back when she was 90 they would give her another gown. She did and they did.

Youth Arraigned On School Charges

Arrested following complaints by parents of high school students, Abraham Grohman, 25, of Richardson street, Newton, was arraigned in Newton court today on charges of selling and possessing obscene pictures and literature.

He was also charged with setting up and promoting a lottery. Pleading not guilty, he was held in $1000 for continuance to March 17.

Munch Garlic And Live Long

Placerville, Cal., March 11 (AP)—Frank Coster has a recipe for longevity—but its users won't be popular at kissing games played in the parlor.

His advice is to eat frequently and fully of garlic and onions. He gives these odoriferous vegetables credit for his 101 years, as well as for the ripe old age reached by his father, now dead.

"Pop ate onions and garlic all the time," Coster said, "and died at the age of 127."

Seized in Purse Thefts in Chapel

Walking out of St. Thomas More Chapel on Franklin street, a 19-year-old North End youth was arrested today in connection with a series of handbag thefts, the latest on complaint of Madeline Moran of Essex street.

She said she was praying in the chapel when her bag, containing several dollars and personal papers, was grabbed.

Booked as a suspicious person, he allegedly admitted the theft and police recovered the bag in an alle

LANGONE ROW STIRS HEARING

A bitter verbal clash between Senator Joseph A. Langone and Miss Florence Birmingham of Brighton took place today at a hearing before the legislative committee on cities at the State House.

Senator Newland Holmes, chairman of the committee, was forced to rap repeatedly for order.

The clash came when Miss Birmingham appeared before the committee to urge favorable action on a bill to abolish the Boston School Committee and to replace it with a seven-member Board of Education.

Shouts of Miss Birmingham and Senator Langone filled the hearing room when the Brighton woman charged that the late Superintendent of Schools Patrick Campbell had died "of a broken heart."

Miss Birmingham was among several speakers who appeared in support of the bill.

President Packs For Vacation Trip

Washington, March 11 (INS)—Satisfied he had forced the nation into accepting Supreme Court rejuvenation as one of the most dramatic political issues of history, President Roosevelt calmly packed vacation bags today.

This afternoon a special train was to take the President to Warm Springs, Ga. There, on the side of Pine Mountain in a "Little White House" of his own, the executive plans to relax for two weeks, while cabinet officers and Congressional supporters temporarily carry on the spectacular battle he started for judiciary reform.

Presidential aides pointed out that Mr. Roosevelt will not be removed from the national forum should he decide his own voice is again needed in the debate. His Georgia cottage is wired for broadcasting.

N. H. GOVERNOR SPURS HUNT FOR BABY

By ARTHUR J. QUINN
Boston Evening American Staff Correspondent

Claremont, N. H., March 11—Governor Francis P. Murphy today ordered State Detective Ralph Caswell into the investigation of the disappearance of East Unity's "babe in the woods."

Dissatisfied with the lack of progress in the search for three-year-old Shirley Brooks, and disturbed by reports that the child had been kidnaped or slain, the Governor told Caswell to "stay on the case until you break it."

Little Shirley vanished last Saturday afternoon after leaving her home in East Unity to meet her father on a woodland road as he was returning from work in a maple syrup orchard.

The governor interested himself not only because of the tragic, possibly criminal, elements of the case, but because he has a personal acquaintance with the Brooks family.

RESUME WOODS HUNT

He maintains a summer place in East Unity and is said to have stopped his automobile several times last summer to chat with Mr. and Mrs. Earl T. Brooks, the baby's parents, and with little Shirley herself.

CCC Searchers Scour New Hampshire Forest in Baby Search

CCC MEMBERS FROM CAMP 1185 IN CLAREMONT COMB FORESTS, NEAR EAST UNITY, HOME OF LOST SHIRLEY BROOKS

The child's father is still convinced that his daughter must have been kidnaped and for that reason expressed hope that federal agents would join the investigation. But authorities here are still completely at sea as to what happened to the baby.

With clearing weather, search of the woods near the Brooks' home once more resumed, although the only hope of this activity was to find the child's body.

Offer of a reward of $100 for finding the child, dead or alive, spurred volunteers on this search. The reward offer was made by East Unity's selectmen.

Shirley's father believes a kidnaper snatched his daughter for revenge sought by a person who he caused to be imprisoned while he was in charge of a Keene, N. H., transient camp.

Sheriff Emery B. Monta admitted today he had obtained the names of three persons who had made threats against Brooks. One of these has been but recently released from a New Hampshire jail.

The sheriff also announced he had received two other important leads during a two-hour questioning of the father and mother of the child. He said he could not reveal at this time what they were.

Sheriff Monta announced he was now satisfied the child's body would not be found in the woodlands back of the Brooks' home.

He frankly stated he was now convinced, as the father and mother have been certain since the child disappeared, that she has been kidnaped.

It was learned today that since Monday afternoon postal authorities have been carrying on a quiet observation of all letters handled in more than a score of towns in the immediate vicinity of Unity, watching for any mail that might be sent to the Brooks' family.

The father and mother of the child have been warned by the postal officials to notify them immediately if they receive a ransom note.

He added, however, there may be a surprise break in this case and if we get it residents of Unity will also be surprised.

Two boys who were seen about the Brooks home a few hours before the child disappeared, one of whom had been quoted by authorities as saying: "I know where Shirley is," were questioned for two hours and then permitted to go home.

GRANDFATHER WEALTHY

Despite statements of the father and mother there could be no kidnap for ransom angle in the child's disappearance, it was learned today that Mrs. Brook's father, S. E. Weeks, is now in Florida and is wealthy.

He not only owns the farm in East Unity, from which Shirley disappeared, but authorities say they have learned he is an orange grove owner.

Officials in Florida have been notified to be on the watch for an attempt to seek ransom from the child's grandfather.

Authorities were paying considerable attention to the information furnished by Lawrence Coutermarche, a grocery salesman, that he saw two strangers lurking in an abandoned house for a week before the child's disappearance.

The father revealed that on one occasion the court action involved concerned a child.

Today both the father and mother reiterated their earlier assertion they would be willing to forget any court action against a kidnaper if their daughter was returned unharmed to them.

Coutermarche says he tried to sell them groceries and he was threatened with death if he approached them again.

The authorities today announced that one of these men answered closely the description of one of the three men who had threatened the child's father.

The father told the Boston Evening American today that if any of the three who threatened the child has actually carried out the threats he considered at the time idle, he believes his baby will be found alive.

THEORY OF PLOT IN SHIP FIRE SPURNED

After a thorough investigation of the $250,000 fire on the steamship Laila at Little Mystic docks in Charlestown, the Boston fire department was forced to carry the case as "undetermined" today.

Reports that there was something suspicious attached to the origin of the blasts that attended the disastrous blaze were put to rest by Fire Chief Samuel W. Pope.

"If there was anything suspicious attached to the fire the fire department would carry on its reports 'suspicious,'" he said.

Of all the casualties among the 325 firemen who fought the flames for five hours, only Captain William J. Marshall of the Fireboat Angus J. McDonald still remained in the hospital.

He was at Haymarket Relief Hospital in "fair" condition, but suffering from exposure as well as from numerous contusions, abrasions and burns.

OTHERS SUFFER

Chief Pope said that practically every fireman at the scene had suffered from burns, exposure or smoke inhalation to some extent, but he said that so far no serious cases had been reported.

Dr. Martin J. Spellman, physician to the department, also stated that he was of the opinion that there was not enough nitrous oxide in the fumes from the burning ship to have affected anyone seriously.

In a letter to Fire Commissioner Edward F. McLaughlin, Gerrit Fort, president of the Mystic Terminal Company, today lauded the work of the fire department in saving the Little Mystic docks where the blazing S. S. Laila was berthed yesterday.

PROUD OF FIREMEN

"Again the Boston Fire Department," the letter stated, "in its handling of the fire on the S. S. Laila had demonstrated its great efficiency and given proof that the City of Boston has reason to be proud of the officers and men who constitute the department under your supervision.

"I confess that we who watched the fire had little or no hope that pier and property therein could be saved. When we learned that the fire had been successfully controlled and confined to the ship, with only minor damage to the pier and contents we could only regard the result as little short of miraculous.

"Hats off to the Boston Fire Department."

LINER BRINGS DOCTOR'S BODY

The body of Dr. J. Wilmot Lawrence, Malden physician, arrived at Boston today aboard the liner Lady Rodney.

Dr. Lawrence died on the return trip from Nassau, where he had been vacationing for his health.

Dr. Karl V. Blackada, ship physician, declared death due to heart failure.

Among 48 passengers, mostly vacationists, who disembarked were Lois Galencia of Lynn and her mother, Mrs. Henry Towne. The two made a bicycle tour of Bermuda.

Others arriving were Mr. and Mrs. John Thayer of Lancaster and Miss Frances Davis, 17, of Walpole, who brought a miscellaneous collection of souvenirs from the southern isles.

2 FLEE NATICK INN BLAZE

Natick, March 11—Dora's Havana Inn, on Old Connecticut Path in Cochituate, was swept to the ground today by flames that nearly trapped the proprietors.

Mr. and Mrs. George Perkins, joint owners, who live in the upper half of the roadhouse, escaped in their night clothing.

The fire caused $7000 damage.

Algeria Miners Clash, 2 Killed

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, lumbago, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Widow Found Dead

Mrs. Mary Wilson, 70, widow, who lived alone in Harrison avenue, Roxbury, is dead today. She was found in the kitchen of her home by neighbors. Death was due to natural causes.

Senate Nearly Repasses 1934 Law

A bill prohibiting charges by gas and electric companies for use of meters was killed by Senate direction today after it was discovered a similar bill had already been passed in 1934.

The new bill, identical with the one that is now a law, had already been pased by the House. Senator Angier L. Goodwin of Melrose explained the matter as "just one of those things."

Betty Alden on 'Beacon Hill'

Surrealistic Art Exhibition Attracts Society

By BETTY ALDEN

THE STYLES AND MEANS of entertaining the public seem to change from year to year . . . but the formula remains the same . . .

Some years ago, a gentleman named Phineas Taylor Barnum gathered together a collection of oddly assorted human freaks . . . improvised a few more . . . and became rich and famous showing them throughout the country as the actual proof of his three well known phrases about fooling the people . . .

Adams Studio

MRS. WILLIAM TUDOR GARDINER

More recently an enterprising group of young showmen, with a flair for art, concocted a new method of manufacturing freaks to catch the interest of the public . . . They drew pictures in which everything was wrong . . . chicken dinners hung from watchfobs . . . heads grew from elbows . . . nightmare animals were put on paper for posterity . . . Anything to be different and relieve us of the sameness of a hum-drum world . . .

They called their creations Surrealism and startled the art loving public of Europe and New York with an exhibition . . .

Last evening, the grotesque, unbalanced products of surrealism opened a two-week siege of Boston, the center of conventional and classic art and culture . . . the opening took the form of an evening reception at 14 Newbury street, where the paintings have been installed . . . the guests were members and friends of the Boston Museum of Modern Art which has brought the exhibition to Boston . . .

Russell Allen, a member of the advisory board of the museum, seemed to be more familiar than most with the paintings, and was much in demand as a guide for the many spectators who were at a loss to comprehend the meaning of the paintings . . . and just couldn't help wondering if they, themselves, or the artists, were crazy . . .

It was Mr. Allen who helped many spectators to discover the beauty in some of Dali's works . . . Dali is outstanding among the surrealists, for he has a beauty of technique that many of the others lack, and though the guests were at a loss to comprehend the meaning or plan behind his designs, they admired and praised details of landscape and sky which are painted with infinite delicacy . . .

Anne Hutchins and her father, Constantine Hutchins, made the rounds of the galleries together . . . Anne looking very sweet in a bouffant black moire dress with rosettes of delicate fluting trimming the skirt . . . Mrs. Roger Merriman was very distinguished in a royal blue gown trimmed with silver sequins and Mrs. Robert Hillyer looked like a true disciple of modern art in a flame color chiffon with yards of chartreuse green and purple chiffon forming panels to the hem . . .

New Art Amuses Many Patrons

MRS. JOEL GOLDTHWAITE and her daughter, Mrs. George Von L. Meyer, like many others present, enjoyed the variety of the exhibit, but found it difficult to reconcile it with Boston's time-tried conservative conception of art . . .

"I think I took art lessons too soon," said one of the peppy young feminine guests, "for some of my most juvenile work would have been accepted for this exhibition" . . . and Mrs. Dunbar Lockwood found pleasure in perusing the drama page of a New York paper which had been marked with puzzling hieroglyphics "for," she explained, "this page advertises some of the plays I saw in my debutante year" . . .

Quite a few people dropped in after attending the third in a series of evening lectures at the Architects Club . . . among them were Mr. and Mrs. H. Addington Bruce and Mr. and Mrs. Henry R. Hitchcock, the former of whom had given the lecture at the club on English architecture . . . Lydia Evans wearing a long brocaded wrap of Chinese red, was another who took in both affairs . . .

Others of social prominence who attended the lecture at the Architects Club included Mr. and Mrs. Walter Atherton, the former in a black crepe gown with a sheer jacket of net trimmed with sequins and a large crimson flower at the neckline . . . Mrs. Carroll Bill in a colorful outfit combining a green brocaded gown with a raspberry Spanish shawl draped over her shoulders . . . Mrs. John B. Potter, Mrs. Ralph Gray and Mrs. W. Rodman Peabody were hostesses for the affair and Mrs. William Tudor Gardiner poured at the informal coffee hour in the club's library before the lecture began . . .

VINCENT CLUB GIRLS, stage and movie stars, and all sorts of friends of the Hasty Pudding boys, have been enlisted to do their bit to help the boys prepare for their annual musical revue, "Come Across," which will go on the boards the week of March 29 . . . but today it is the postman's turn to offer his assistance . . .

Over 3000 invitations to patronesses are being mailed today, and before long the boys hope to have acceptances from nearly every one of the 3000 . . .

We couldn't attempt to give you the whole list of prospective patronesses, but a few random names include Mrs. Gaspar Bacon, mother of Gaspar, Jr., who takes the feminine lead in the show; Mrs. Donald Cassels, who gave a large tea last week for the Hasty Pudding boys and Vincent Club girls who have been concentrating seriously on their respective plays . . . 2-WAY RADIOS TO GO INTO POLICE CARS

Direct radio communication between the Beacon Hill headquarters of the Metropolitan District Commission and the Quabbin dam, 65 miles away, was established today.

Communication was maintained with a police car all the way from Quabbin until the car reached the front door of the commission at 20 Somerset street, Beacon Hill.

Described as a "step forward" by Radio Engineer Lawrence G. Cumming, the transmitter is able to handle directional receivers. During yesterday's experiment the Lowell and Hull police, using the same frequency, could not penetrate the exchange between Quabbin and Beacon Hill.

As a result of the experiment it is planned to equip 40 of the metropolitan district police cars with a two-way radio.

STORE WORKER HELD IN HOLDUP

After the Timothy Smith Department Store night watchman had been bound and gagged Sunday night and the safe robbed of $785, John Miliolo, who has a shoe repair concession in the store, was one of the many workers who discussed the bold holdup.

Today, in Roxbury court, warrants were issued charging Miliolo with being one of the seven bandits who staged the robbery, during which they tied up Frank H. Ryder, 65-year-old watchman.

The warrants charge Miliolo with breaking and entering in the nighttime, larceny, robbery while armed and carrying firearms while being an alien.

Miliolo, who is 32, and lives in George street, Roxbury, was in his shoe shop Monday, the day after the robbery.

The shoemaker was grilled by Captain Thomas F. Casey of Roxbury Crossing Station, Sergeant John J. Sullivan and Special Officers Joseph A. Dever and Frank C. Coleman.

Rich Socialite, 38, Near Death After Suicide Try

MRS. MANIERRE DELAFIELD

New York, March 11 (UP)—While her car waited outside to speed her to another of her many social engagements, Mrs. Lewis L. Delafield, Jr., fired a bullet through her head in the drawing room of her 12-room apartment on Park avenue.

The young society matron, former president of the Junior League and divorced wife of a member of one of New York's ultra-conservative old families, was in a critical condition.

Physicians of the Neurological Institute at Medical Center, to which she was removed, held only slight hope for her recovery.

Police declared the shooting unquestionably a suicide attempt, and put the young woman under technical arrest on a Sullivan law charge.

Her mother, Mrs. Alfred Lee Manierre, also a member of one of New York's first families, blamed the tragedy on overwork connected with the manifold social activities in which her daughter was involved.

Mrs. Delafield, who is 38, had been under treatment recently, the mother said, after a near-breakdown following her work as president of the Junior Republican Committee during the fall campaign.

Her husband is a widely known sportsman and attorney. Two adopted children live with the father at his home in Hewlett, L. I.

Mr. Delafield and the former Ruth Lockwood Manierre were married by Bishop Manning in 1921 at St. Stephen's Church, Ridgefield, Conn. A Reno divorce ended the marriage in 1935.

Shortly after the divorce Mrs. Delafield entered Dr. Lunt's sanitarium in Concord, Mass., for treatment.

Normandie Sails, Seeks New Record

Le Havre, March 11 (INS)—In quest of new Atlantic speed honors, the French liner Normandie sailed today with 800 passengers bound for New York.

The huge liner got away following settlement of a strike for higher wages. For a time the walkout tied up 70 ships in the harbor here and delayed departure of the Normandie.

KILL THAT COLD

Give It No Chance to Survive Thru the Use of Half-way Measures!

Treat a cold to kill it, not to coddle it!

Many a cold lightly treated turns into something worse.

Hit a cold "where it lives"—in the system! That means to take an internal treatment.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is the treatment you want.

First of all, it is a cold tablet, made expressly for colds.

Second, it is internal medication and of fourfold effect.

Here's what it does:

First, it opens the bowels, an advisable step in the treatment of a cold.

Second, it checks the infection in the system, a vital step.

Third, it relieves the headache and fever.

That's the fourfold treatment a cold calls for and in Bromo Quinine you get it in the form of a single tablet.

The sugar-coated are exactly the same as the regular, except that the tablets are coated with sugar for palatability.

Start taking the tablets immediately, two every four hours. Used in time, Bromo Quinine will usually break up a cold in 24 hours and that's the speed you want.

DEMAND STATE GOVERN HOME CHILD LABOR

Manufacturers, civic organizations and organized labor today joined hands in demanding that home work on articles for resale in Massachusetts, subject of attack in Haverhill by a national magazine, be strictly regulated by the state department of labor and industries.

While there was some difference as to whether the home work should be limited to children 16 years of age and above, the speakers agreed that the department should be given power to issue permits for such work to employers.

The participation for such work by children, particularly by those of tender years, was vigorously condemned. And it was further pointed out that such work is in unfair competition to manufacturers.

Under one section of the bill being heard by the legislative committee on labor and industries, manufacture in the homes and work incidental would be prohibited.

James T. Moriarty, commissioner of labor and industries, strongly urged the 16-year age minimum for home workers, pointing out that this was one way of stopping unfair competition.

Moriarty said that children of 14, required to work all hours of the night on home work, are certainly in no condition to do their school work.

"It is bad to have children 16 years of age working at any time," he said. "As an official I don't like to admit bad thins, but it is happenin more than I like to see it."

Seized for Break; Reveals Escape In Car Plunge

Horace L. Rattenbury, Jr., 22, of Roxbury, narrowly escaped death today when a sedan plunged into the Sudbury river at Wayland — but he wound up in a cell charged with breaking and entering.

The youth, who gave an address in Harrison avenue, Roxbury, but whose home, state troopers declare, is in Hampden street, was arrested in the Wayland Country Club asleep between two mattresses and his clothing on the floor, frozen.

Police Chief Harry Craig of Wayland made the arrest after receiving a telephone tip that someone had broken into the country club, closed for the winter.

REVEALS CRASH

Not until Craig had taken Rattenbury to state police barracks in Framingham did Rattenbury reveal that a car he had been driving had torn through a bridge and gone into a river.

Patrolman Frank Moore of Wayland police later discovered a sedan in the Sudbury river, where it had landed after ripping through the bridge railing.

According to the police officer, the car appeared to have gone 40 feet through the air between the bridge and the water.

FORCES WAY OUT

Rattenbury told state troopers that when he found himself trapped under water in the sedan he broke the glass in a window and escaped.

Although he claimed there was no one with him, state and Wayland officers began dragging the stream.

Bride on One Ship, Doctor on Other

New York, March 11 (AP)—The Italian liner Roma put into port today from a Mediterranean cruise and one of the passengers aboard was Sylvia Rosenbluth, the bride of Dr. Vernon Stone—but Dr. Stone was still continuing his travels about the world.

Miss Rosenbluth, 22, of Philadelphia, and Dr. Stone, 35, of the Crile Institute in Cleveland, met last month on the liner on its first cruise day out of New York.

Passengers said it was love at first sight. They were married February 21 at Cairo, and parted the same day—the bride remaining with the Roman cruise and Dr. Stone continuing his original around-the-world schedule.

Astor Diary Case Kaufman Warrant May Be Quashed

Los Angeles, March 11 (INS)—Powerful Hollywood film interests moved suddenly today to quash the bench warrant for the arrest of George S. Kaufman, internationally famous playwright, who fled to New York after being subpoenaed to testify in the sensational Mary Astor "lavender diary" child custody case.

Counsel for Dr. Franklyn Thorpe, former husband of the screen actress, told International News Service the necessary papers might be laid before Superior Judge Goodwin J. Knight today as a preliminary to the withdrawal of the warrant.

Be sure to have your card and badge so as to be eligible for the Easter Egg Hunt.

Britain Fears Shortage of Tin

London, March 11 (AP)—Speculative price advances aroused fears in British metal markets today of a shortage of actual tin for Great Britain's rearmament program.

Some brokers estimated that by the end of this week there would be a stock of only 900 tons of tin in London—no more than a normal 10 days' supply.

Yale Plans New Catholic Chapel

New Haven, Ct., March 11 (AP)—Yale will soon have a Catholic chapel for undergraduates.

The Rev. T. Lawrason Riggs, chaplain of the Yale Catholic Club, bid in a piece of property for $12,220 and announced the construction would begin about June 1.

LOUELLA PARSONS—NEW FILMS—DRAMA NOTES

Warners Buy 'First Lady' for Kay

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor, Universal Service
(Copyright, 1937, by Universal Service)

Los Angeles, March 11 (US)—Any hour, any minute, Jack Warner is expected to take his pen in hand and sign a contract for the purchase of "First Lady."

Louella O. Parsons

Originally "First Lady" was bought for Norma Shearer by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, but Norma is concentrating only on "Marie Antoinette," and since M-G-M have no actress in mind, Warner's are able to buy it for Kay Francis.

"First Lady," by George S. Kaufman and Katherine Dayton, recently played in Los Angeles after a long run in New York. Miss Francis will play the role Jane Cowl created on the stage, that of the granddaughter of a former President who wangles Washington politics making and unmaking Presidents. At the time the play opened it was whispered that it was inspired by the historic battle between Alice Roosevelt Longworth and Dolly Gann.

Ina Claire is finally headed back to Hollywood and probably a grand job in the movies—that is, if she tests as well as everyone at Warner Brothers hopes. And why shouldn't she? Ina was charming on the screen before and everyone wondered why she didn't make more pictures. She will test as soon as she arrives here, for "The Love Derby," the next Leslie Howard picture in which Olivia de Havilland plays the young love interest, and I should say it's dollars to doughnuts that the job is her's as soon as Archie Mayo, the director, sees the results.

"52nd Street," the cavalcade of New York night life, is finally getting under way at Walter Wanger Studios. Groves Jones' first assignment under his new contract with Wanger will be to write the story, destined to be a musical. When it reaches the screen all of Manhattan's most famous night club entertainers will be invited to play themselves. "52nd Street," where the famous "21" and other clubs flourish, will be duplicated. Maybe Grover can get some expert technical advice from Jack Kreindler of "21" fame, who is in Hollywood at the moment, with the idea of establishing a night club locally.

If the Diamond brothers (the three of 'em) are as funny as Ben Lyons says, the Marx and Ritz brothers should have some hot competition. The Diamonds arrive here shortly from England for "Broadway Jamboree" and that, my dears, is a combination of the annual "Jamboree" show Universal plans to make, and "Mr. Broadway" which Buddy De Sylva was planning as a musical. The talent corralled for "Broadway Jamboree" includes Ken Murray, radio favorite; Oswald, his stooge, and Dave Appolon's orchestra.

Chatter in Hollywood: It is whispered that Elaine Barrie Barrymore's pa and ma are not getting along so well since they moved to Hollywood. Pa has returned to New York, while the very youthful and attractive Mrs. Jacobs is staying on with their daughter. Chaperoning Elaine and Julius Tannen's boy Bill at Frank Kerwin's Merry-Go-Round the other night were Mrs. Jacobs and one David Fisher. This foursome has been seen together again and again. When queried about the possibility of a divorce, Mrs. Jacobs said, "Well, it's an idea."

Snapshots of Hollywood:

GLORIA SWANSON and FRANCES MARION choo chooing to New York, GLORIA for a radio engagement and FRANCES to look over plays for Columbia. When GLORIA returns she will do an MGM movies but not the one originally selected for her; LELA ROGERS, GINGER'S Ma, 20 pounds lighter and looking more like her sister, beaued by STANLEY SMITH to the ROGERS-VANDERBILT roller skating party. LIBBY HOLMAN, done up in white kid, black from head to foot from her many falls—and the costume, she said, was borrowed with the promise to return it intact; PAT VAN CLEVE, MARION DAVIES' pretty niece, and JOHNNY MACK BROWN won the contest waged for the best skaters; MARY BRIAN, among the most graceful rollers, took nary a spill; GINGER, exhausted after hostessing on skates for three hours, had expected everyone to dance after an hour's hilarity, but at 2:30, when we left the party, the skating was still going on and in a big way; ALAN MOWBRAY, never on skates in his life, started off with a tumble and ended the same way; the ROSALIND RUSSELL-GARBO feud over HAZEL, Garbo's maid who deserted in favor of RUSSELL, now ended with GARBO'S finding a new maid she likes; HOWARD STRICKLING partying for ED HATRICK in honor of his birthday. Also for GENE FOWLER and ELLA WILLIAMS who had birthdays too; GLENDA FARRELL sailing on the Queen Mary; LUPE VELEZ cooing with JOHNNY WEISSMULLER at a cafe, her grievances forgotten; LILA LEE and SAM WOLF, local attorney, a twosome at a cafe; MARY BRIAN stepping out with DICK PURCELL, and MARY MAGUIRE with GORDON OLIVER, also cafeing. That's all for today. See you tomorrow!

Noted Metropolitan Opera Star

finds Luckies easy on her precious throat—

Marjorie Lawrence says:

"You must have a big voice to sing Wagner. My favorite role of 'Brunnhilde' in Wagner's 'Gotterdammerung' is a very exacting one. Yet—when I am back in my dressing room after I have finished singing, there is nothing I enjoy more than lighting up a Lucky. It is a light smoke—so gentle—so smooth—that it does not irritate my throat in the least. I agree with the others at the Metropolitan that a light smoke is a wise choice."

Marjorie Lawrence

BRILLIANT SOPRANO OF THE METROPOLITAN OPERA COMPANY

An independent survey was made recently among professional men and women—lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc. Of those who said they smoke cigarettes, more than 87% stated they personally prefer a light smoke.

Miss Lawrence verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do other leading artists of the radio, stage, screen and opera. Their voices are their fortunes. That's why so many of them smoke Luckies. You, too, can have the throat protection of Luckies—a light smoke, free of certain harsh irritants removed by the exclusive process "It's Toasted". Luckies are gentle on the throat.

Extra Girl Sees Self as Others See Her

Ann Marsters, Boston's girl reporter, holds her own preview of "Swing High, Swing Low," which opened at the Metropolitan Theater today, in the privacy of her office. Miss Marsters, whose graphic, intimate, firsthand accounts of the trials of a movie extra in Hollywood appeared recently in the Boston American and Sunday Advertiser, has a "bit" part in this romance of the tropics which has Carole Lombard and Fred MacMurray as co-stars. Appearing as a dime-a-dance girl in a cabaret scene, Miss Marsters escaped the fate of so many extras of just being another face when she was chosen as the dance partner of Paramount's director, Mitchell Leisen, who always makes it a point, according to Miss Marsters, to appear at least once in his own pictures.

SLASH $67,000 BILL IN HALF

Expenses of $67,743.70, submitted in connection with the liquidation of the Amoskeag Mills of Manchester, N. H., were slashed to $29,463.30 by Referee in Bankruptcy Arthur Black in a report to Judge Elisha H. Brewster of the federal court today.

Frederic C. Dumaine and Joseph P. Carney, as temporary trustees for the property, submitted a bill of $15,000 for services. Referee Black recommended $6,000.

Peabody, Arnold, Batchelder & Luther, as counsel for the trustees asked $4000 for a fee and $30.61 for expenses. This was allowed.

Charles M. Rogerson, counsel for the Boston Safe Deposit & Trust Company, asked $1000 for deciding questions on priority rights of bondholders. This was denied.

The law firm of Choate, Hall & Stewart asked $1165 for services and $35.97 for expenses in the liquidation proceedings and this was allowed.

Other Slashes

The same firm was allowed a fee of $400 and expenses of $87.20 for services to the debtor in the appeal of Lawrence J. Harrington. But the firm of Sullivan & Sullivan was denied a fee of $6300 and expenses of $962.16 as counsel for Harrington and others.

GIRL ABOUT TOWN

BY

Marjorie McBride

On the eve of almost any Armistice Day . . . or Decoration Day [illegible] men drop in on pawnbrokers and professional collectors of military [illegible] and buy medals for valor that were issued to somebody else during the World War.

MARJORIE McBRIDE

Purchasers are usually about the right age to have served in the war. [illegible] they did serve [illegible] medals [illegible] they wish to buy, and [illegible] them. Pawnbrokers and collectors wouldn't know anything about that. What the purchasers do with the trinkets after they pay is between them, their consciences and whatever law there may be on the subject. If an occasional soldier who fought through the war at Camp Devens decides to play the hero for a day, and decorate his chest with a second or third-hand Croix de Guerre, it's strictly up to him.

At Blaine Elmer's shop in Washington street, the cost of a German Iron Cross is about $2, with few askers. The Croix de Guerre sells for the same sum, and there aren't so many.

Some Heroic Honors Cheap, Some Costly

A Canadian Victory Medal can be had cheap. The Distinguished Service Medal is rare, and brings as high as $20. Purple Heart medals sell for $10 in the current market.

British medals issued to members of the Essex Regiment during the African campaigns are rare and patriotic Englishmen pay big prices for them and send them home.

M. J. Gordon, whose pawnshop is in Cornhill, finds that ex-soldiers aren't as eager to "hock" their crosses and medals as they were before the bonus was paid.

Plenty of boys just over 21 buy medals, mostly as a lark. And there is a steady market among collectors. Medals dating from the Spanish American War and the War of 1812 constantly mount in value.

"Queen" of Winter Comes to Springlike Boston

A "queen" and five attendant "princesses" reach Boston tomorrow on a good will tour sponsored by the Winter Sports Association of Oregon. They're all from Portland.

Chosen for ability on skis as well as for comeliness, they already have visited 12 cities to spread the news that Oregon offers a winter playground.

Although they catch Boston in an embarrassing moment . . . there haven't been any winter sports in this city this winter . . . the Chamber of Commerce will act as host and entertain them. During their stay, they will speak over the radio.

A day or two ago, Manager Charles Warmuth of the Warmuth Restaurant in Devonshire street learned that Eva Tessier, who once worked for him as a waitress, is the wife of the blind war veteran now stranded in Montreal and in difficulties with the immigration authorities.

Wires Cash and Promise of Her Old Job Back

Canadian-born, Tessier, thought having served in the American army in the war made him automatically a citizen and went away some months ago to visit in Canada. When he and his wife, also Canadian-born, tried to get back to Boston, immigration officials said they could come in only under the quota. They had very little cash.

Kindly Mr. Warmuth can't do much about the immigration question . . . the President has interested himself, and that's being ironed out . . . but he could and did do something about the financial difficulties of the couple.

Wiring Tessier's brother, Warmuth sent money to get them back to town, and assured "Eva" she would have a job again as waitress.

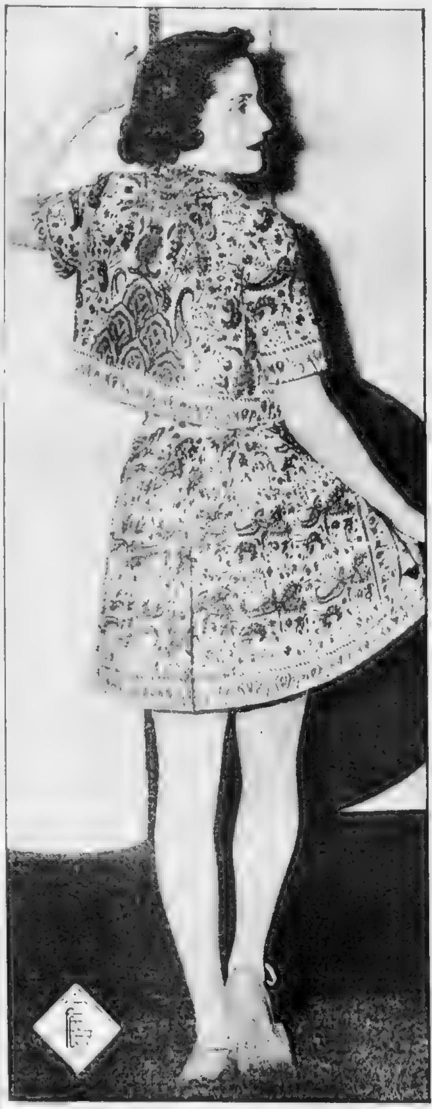
Play in India Print



PLAY CLOTHES don't need any prompting to pick up the newest fashion ideas for themselves. Take the favorite play-time fabric that's lent its flattery to many a summer belle—the India print. It takes the sober little Eton jacket and makes of it a dashing accompaniment to a pair of giddy pleated shorts. At this point, India gets involved with a land somewhere near the Levant . . . because there's no denying there is a strong Macedonian tinge to the hang and cut of the pleated skirt-shorts. At any rate, the whole affair is one of the most amusing and inexpensive play suits turned out for the South and July in the North. This is a Fashion Congress selection modeled by Miss Mary Morrison; for shopping information on it, phone Annice Brink, Fashion Editor, Liberty 4000, or write her at the Boston Evening American.

AUSTEN LAKE

Baseball's No. 1 Hero, Somerville's Shanty Hogan, Gets in Shape

AUSTEN LAKE

When it comes to red raw, bleed- [illegible]

His appetite has been immortalized in song and story. But I do not mean to be funny. Because when it comes spring and the call for training, Shanty practically strangles his soul with his naked hands. He diets on air and imagination. He rolls himself in woolen wrappers and fries in hot boxes. He clumps miles under broiling Florida suns. He wears rubber shirts that dissolve his tallow in moist candle-drips.

I KNOW BECAUSE I WAS IN ON SHANTY'S early beginning when he joined the Braves as a porky youth in 1925. He was one of those physical victims who eats a boiled dinner at night and finds the parsnips, brisket and potatoes translated to globules of flesh next morning. Does he swallow a poached egg that egg becomes an integral part of a hip or joins a cascade on his waterfall stomach.

WHEN TRAGEDY STALKED

I KNOW THAT THERE WERE TIMES, at the height of his restraint, when his nerves jangled like a dance hall piano and when his oppressed innards would suddenly slap his soul a backhand smack. Then, with a silent shriek, Hogan would go on a gobble-jag, running breakfast, dinner and supper into one gosh awful orgy. And I assure you at such times, it was a sight to see queues of waiters come staggering out of a restaurant kitchen, their knee-joints sagging under the weight of their trays, while the steady chomp-chomp of Hogan's jaws suggested the march of infantry on a gravel road. Until at last with a sigh like a factory whistle he would wrestle himself to his feet and go back to the ball yard to shuck off his padding all over again.

[illegible]

WHEN HOGAN FIRST CAME TO THE BRAVES he was an ex-schoolboy outfielder who caused earth tremors when he ran after fly balls. But he didn't stay an outfielder long. And this is why.

It was an afternoon early in the training season at St. Pete- [illegible]

SPIKES Schmeling BOUT

SAYS GERMANY DEFINITELY OUT

Miami Beach, Fla., March 11 (INS) — The glittering proposition of one quarter of a million dollars for a single fight, as put forward by Max Schmeling in offering to meet James J. Braddock in his native Berlin, the heavyweight champion smiled today and said:

"I'm really surprised at Schmeling. Two hundred and fifty thousand to go to Berlin. He must think I'm an amateur going to the Olympics."

As if two hundred thousand [illegible] were just so many red herrings Braddock declared.

On the face of it Schmeling's offer might seem like a good proposition [illegible] the angles would favor the brown shirt [illegible]

Own Terms

"I'm not afraid of Schmeling, Louis or any other challenger but when the terms are made they'll be made as Joe Gould and I want them. And the fight will be fought under conditions where we know that if we win, we come out of the fight with the title."

Braddock was frankly [illegible]

"Max must have thought he was pulling a fast one in trying to take the fight to Germany. [illegible] There's a lot of angles to the proposition, but the principal one is that it would be doubtful if I got A FAIR DEAL over there."

Robert Ready Early in May — The Dogs Help Some People

By JACK CONWAY

The finish wrestling bout between Dan O'Mahony, youthful Irishman, and George Clark of Scotland took on an air of added importance today when Paul Bowser announced he had signed Yvon Robert to defend his world championship against any opponent he selects.

Robert has been away from the wrestling wars since he suffered a broken [illegible] in a bout with Cliff Olsen at Washington last November.

The champion, after several months in the hospital, is back training again and will be ready to shoot the works against the well known [illegible] early in May.

WINNER GETS MOST OF SPOILS

[illegible]

I don't think Max Baer would have quit like he did to Joe Louis if he didn't know when he entered the ring that his purse, amounting to $150,000, was safely on deposit for him in a California bank.

[illegible]

I am glad Paul Bowser put on the pressure and insisted that Clark sign to meet O'Mahony. Wrestlers and boxers should be compelled by the promoters to take on logical opponents and not be permitted to increase their number of victories by defeating setups.

"SNAPPY" O'CONNELL'S BIG FIGHT

[illegible]

"I know you will be surprised to receive this letter and learn that I am in the Veterans Hospital at Rutland. I have been here nine months, and although I feel much better than when I came here sometimes it seems like I shall never make the grade.

"I don't mean to give you the impression I am ready to toss in the sponge, but that is the way it feels when you are in a room by yourself and you are in bed 24 hours a day.

"I was going to write to you before, Sam, but I know how busy people are in a newspaper office. I get the Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser and keep in touch with sports events in that way.

"I am glad 'Rip' Valenti is making good. It was a great win for Sammy Fuller when he knocked out Andy Callahan. Give my best wishes to everybody, Sam, and you can rest assured I'll keep trying to win back my health."

FRED HOEY Writes:

BASEBALL FANS [illegible] AVOID SPOT LIGHT.

Hello, everybody. This is Fred Hoey speaking.

Some cynical fans aver that New England state and city officials attend big league games only for the spotlight they can absorb. Nothing could be further from the truth. Governors, mayors and other officials attend ball games because of their love for the game. We have observed these prominent officials at both Fenway Park and the Bee Hive. They follow the action of the players with the same keenness as Mike, Izzy, Tony and Otto do far out there in the bleachers.

A slight favorite to win the meet this year, Yale, nevertheless is mightily fearful of the Hal Ulen coached Crimson unit which has left some of the best teams in the east wallowing in [illegible] this season.

Need Divers

Led by Charles Hutter [illegible] to the [illegible] which has been undefeated [illegible] country. [illegible] Dartmouth, Princeton, Pennsylvania and [illegible] are regarded [illegible]

The only drawback has been lack of experienced divers.

[illegible] the Crimson squad was well stocked with [illegible] but a [illegible] of injuries has cut the squad to two men, Russ [illegible] and Bob Snyder.

In the 50 Harvard will hold a [illegible] and Don Park [illegible] each of whom has been [illegible] the Crimson [illegible] the speed of the Yales.

A [illegible] exists in the 100 [illegible] where three Harvard men, Hutter, [illegible] and Captain John [illegible]

Macionis Star

However, Yale's Johnny Macionis and Dick Cook, two of the best men [illegible] Hutter in the [illegible] and are both regarded [illegible] Neither Macionis nor Hutter registered for the event as yet, but [illegible] up at the take-off [illegible] record for the distance is a likely prospect.

In the 220-yard freestyle Yale has Cooke, Macionis and Good to shoot against Harvard's Hutter and Stowe.

The Yale and Harvard 440-yard men are also well matched.

Harvard has Hutter, who can compete in only two events and a relay; Frank Coleman and Dario [illegible]erizzi to match with Yale's Cacionis and Pete Brueckel.

In the breast stroke the Elis have Macionis and Brueckel and since both men are regarded as first [illegible] performers it is very likely that Coach Kiphuth will enter them [illegible] and the 440 free style.

Harvard has [illegible] and [illegible] Munroe, both good men but not quite in the class of the blue [illegible]

John J. Macionis, star of the Yale swimming team which meets Harvard here Saturday. Macionis is the National A. A. U. 400-meter champion and Olympic performer.

Ralph S. Penn, freestyle ace of Yale's undefeated team of natators, who is expected to chalk up victories in the "50" and "100" against Harvard.

RED SOX Deny Bid for AVERILL

CLEVELAND ACE HOLDING OUT

By BILL GRIMES

Sarasota, Fla., March 11—Manager Joe Cronin today denied that he had received any word from Earl Averill, the Cleveland outfielder who is a holdout and said to be dickering with the Red Sox.

"We haven't heard from Averill," declared Cronin, "and of course, you realize that under the rules and regulations of the American League we can not proposition any holdout."

According to [illegible] I received from Cleveland Averill is trying to [illegible] to the Red Sox.

He [illegible] with Owner [illegible] and declares [illegible] play for Cleveland.

Averill [illegible] change of scenery would be beneficial to him and [illegible] offer [illegible] the Red Sox.

A few years ago Cleveland [illegible] him out in left field [illegible] Joe Vosmik was a better [illegible] but Averill was such a flop [illegible] that Vosmik was sent back to his old berth.

Spoldi Withdraws, Belloise Meets Armstrong

New York, March 11 [illegible] Henry Armstrong [illegible] world featherweight championship, and Mike Belloise [illegible] here as champion will meet in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night, the latter substituting for [illegible]

[illegible] Spoldi was given permission by the New York commission to withdraw [illegible] bout with Armstrong and the Garden's request for a [illegible] the match was granted. The [illegible] crown will not be at stake.

In behalf of the Garden the commission filed with the British boxing board of control a formal protest against Max Baer being permitted to fight in England before he fulfills a contract for a match with Bob Pastor here.

U. S. WHEAT EXPORTS

FORECAST

Supplies Low In Other Countries

Chicago, March 11 (AP)—The scramble for the world's dwindling wheat supplies, which has lifted prices to eight-year peaks, gave the American farmer a golden opportunity today to resume the role of exporter this year.

Board of Trade specialists predicted that if domestic wheat production in 1937 is as large as expected, vessels once again will be leaving United States wharves bound for Europe with large quantities of grain.

The United States has not been a wheat exporter for many months because the cumulative effect of several seasons of short crops has reduced stocks in this country to the lowest point since 1919.

In direct contrast to conditions a few years ago when the bins of virtually every big wheat exporting nation in the world were bulging with grain for which there was no market, rearming European nations now find themselves scouring the southern hemisphere for wheat to feed populations and store reserves for possible war.

Traders said it was possible that existing supplies in the three big exporting countries — Argentina, Australia and Canada — may be near exhaustion by summer when new United States wheat will be harvested. If prices are favorable and European demand persists they said, American farmers may find the opportunity for export the best since the World War.

Germany, Italy and Great Britain have been big buyers of wheat in the world's markets recently. Indicative of the extent of their efforts to obtain supplies were trade reports showing that Turkey's wheat reserves, usually a negligible factor in the world market, have been tapped by the big powers.

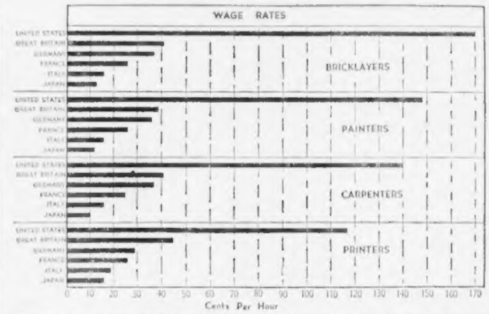
With the United States expected to have the only supply of wheat of consequence in the world in June and July, attention has focused on crop conditions in the domestic winter wheat belt. The largest acreage ever sown to wheat is under cultivation in this region, and recent estimates indicated the crop may exceed 600,000,000 bushels, which would be the largest production in six years.

Dry subsoil and dust storms have plagued the region so far this year, however.

Lerner Stores

Lerner Stores Corp. reported sales of $2,187,207 for February against $2,045,112 in February, 1936, an increase of 4.5 per cent.

American Wages Best in World



That the average "standard of living" in the United States is far superior to that of other countries is a fact known to everyone. How true this is in at least four trades is shown in the accompanying chart.

Comparing the hourly wage rates in six leading nations, we find that the rate in the United States is, on the average, about four times higher than in Great Britain, where wage rates are next highest.

Wage rates in all these trades are lowest in Japan, where they average between 10 and 20 cents per hour.

SIDELIGHTS OF WALL STREET

New York, March 11—Weakness in Brooklyn-Manhattan common yesterday attracted considerable attention, but no positive explanation of its action was forthcoming. This issue sold down to 40 and closed at 42, with a net loss of 2¼ points. Officials of the company declined to discuss the action which the directors will take on the dividend at their meeting next Monday in anticipation of the event. Some persons in a position to know, however, did not expect any change in the rate. A rumor to the effect that the selling in the issue resulted from liquidation of the holdings of the late Charles Hayden, who was a director, was eliminated as a possible cause of the weakness when investigation of records of the Securities and Exchange Commission disclosed that he held no equity securities. In addition to the recent labor troubles of the company, which received considerable publicity, there have been sporadic difficulties, an official said. A group of about 20 bus drivers appeared yesterday at the company's office and staged a "sit-down" demonstration when a conference was refused because their spokesman was not an employe of the company.

New 1937 Peak Loadings Seen

Railroad freight loadings last week aggregated in the vicinity of 740,000 cars, a new peak for 1937, according to estimates based on early reports received from individual carriers. Official figures will be made public tomorrow by the Association of American Railroads. The estimated total would represent a sharp increase over the preceding high for the year of 714,884 cars set in the week ended Feb. 20. Loadings of 740,000 cars would be 43,273 cars above the 696,727 cars for the preceding week, but the preceding week contained the Washington's Birthday holiday.

Air Conditioning And Rail Riders

The nation's railroads, which have spent $50,000,000 for air-conditioning railroad cars, have just completed a questionnaire study to find out what the public thinks about air-conditioning of rail passenger equipment. Summarizing criticisms, the Association of American Railroads, which conducted the study, found that equal percentages of passengers criticized air-conditioning cars as "much too warm" and "much too cold." The same ratio held for those who thought the cars were "slightly too warm" and "slightly too cool." Eight per cent of passengers queried claimed the air was "stuffy," while seven per cent complained drafts. Around five per cent of the passengers said they noticed "unpleasant odors," which engineers are now correcting. But on the matter of temperature, the study showed "you can't please all of the passengers all of the time."

Research a Threat To Many Mortgages

A large electric company, specializing in air conditioning and light rays, a large chemical company and a relatively large food company are to be asked to join in establishing a combined laboratory for research in the latest development of scientific growth of food products. The chemical culture of agricultural products is being accomplished now on the Pacific coast. Tests so far made reduce the time from seed to fruit from three months to three days. Though in the experimental stage, study is already being made of the effects of chemical culture of foods on such economic problems as the farm mortgages. Taken in connection with the rapid development of the idea of pre-fabricated houses, some students of economics are wondering what will be the position of institutional and other holders of home and farm mortgages, when both ideas have reached a mass production stage.

Paramount Bond Swap Helps Net

A large part of the new issue of Paramount convertible 3¼s was accepted in the exchange by holders of the 6s. The offer involved up to $15,000,000, but because of the short time in which exchange was possible, it had not been expected that the entire issue would be taken. The exchange privilege has now expired. The question has arisen as to what is to happen to the remaining outstanding 6s. The company's cash position, it was pointed out yesterday, indicates that the 6 per cent issue might be called. In the meantime fixed charges have now been reduced in proportion to the amount of 6s turned in for new convertible 3¼s. This, it was stated yesterday, should benefit earnings per share which are reported to be improving rapidly. Official estimate of earnings for the quarter ended January 2, published some time ago, was $1.72 a share.

TREASURY FINANCING SUCCESS

Washington, March 11 (INS)—The government's first quarter financing program, involving refunding of $502,361,900 of maturing obligations, had been "highly successful," Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau reported today.

The refinancing operation allowed holders of 3 per cent notes maturing due April 15 to exchange them for bonds maturing in 15 to 19 years and bearing interest of 2½ per cent.

Preliminary figures show that already more than 90 per cent of the noteholders have converted their obligations into the new securities. As part of the March 15 financing program, the Treasury also is paying off in cash $100,000,000 of maturing short-term bills.

GOOD Advertising PAYS

MASS OUTPUT AIDED

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

Copyright, 1937, by Universal Service

New York, March 11—Sophisticated business baiters nowadays habitually attack advertising as an economic waste.

They dwell on the occasional abuses, rather than on the rich potential for social service.

Good advertising is a major educational force.

It frequently has more cultural value than the editorial feature because of its repetitive character. Through reiteration, it drives home its lesson.

Advertising is a constructive influence in raising popular living standards, for without widespread desire for better products it is impracticable to achieve the economies of mass production.

Good advertising pays for itself by combating consumer apathy, which is deadly to trade.

While the dilettantes berate advertising, analytical executives are turning increasingly to this aid to greater sales. The steel trade, which was one of the last to turn to advertising, is expanding its activity in printed salesmanship.

* * *

Tom M. Girdler, head of the Republic Steel Corporation, in the current annual report, which itself has been converted into a selling document, relates how advertising leads the way to better sales.

"As your corporation increases in size and diversity of products," Mr. Girdler reveals to his 43,000 stockholder-bosses, "it becomes more and more essential to keep prospective buyers consistently informed concerning our various lines. The advertising activities of Republic and subsidiaries are guided by intensive market studies in order to assure maximum benefits to ourselves and to distributors of our products.

"A typical example of thoroughness in the planning and preparation of an advertising campaign is that which announced Republic's entry into the farm market in a major way with our new electro-galvanized wire products. Although Republic had an excellent reputation among industrial buyers, the name meant little to the farmer. A new field was being opened. For the first time Republic faced the problem of selling the ultimate consumer on a large scale. After careful study a complete dealer-consumer merchandising plan and campaign was worked out, all closely geared to production and selling plans. New types of media were used. New types of promotional matter were developed.

"Republic became the first major steel company to institute an agricultural extension bureau to better enable the company to solve those problems which have to do with the proper specification and application of steel products to meet farm requirements. All of this was carried out in a comparatively short time. It is significant that the campaign has already borne fruit in distinctly tangible form."

* * *

Critics of business assume that consumer demand automatically comes into existence. Nothing could be further from the truth. Advertising and selling convert potential demand into effective demand.

Absence of the selling urge tends to contract business volume and to lower living standards.

HANEY ON MARKET

Prices of Bonds SAG AS NEW STOCK Issues Take Lead

By LEWIS HANEY

Professor of Economics, New York University

New York, March 11—The prices of most high grade bonds have been working gradually lower during the past two months. Government securities have been particularly weak and the price the administration now has to pay for short-term funds is the highest in a long while.

This condition has been attended by some slowness in the sales of new bond issues and by a notable trend toward issuing new stock instead of bonds.

* * *

There are two elements in the situation: One is the value of capital. The other is the income on capital. The "rate" of interest, or the yield percentage, is merely the mathematical result of dividing a capital value of say 100, into an income of say 3.50, thus getting 3½ per cent.

Accordingly, the sagging trend of the high grade bond market may be occasioned either by a decline in the value of capital or by relative decrease in the annual income as compared with that to be gained elsewhere. In reality, I suspect that both of these declines have been occurring. Let me explain.

First, there is the fact that the future of investments is now definitely affected by prospects of rising commodity prices and declining purchasing power for dollars. This makes investment less attractive, since a fixed sum of money is assumed to be declining in value as time goes by.

Second, uncertainty as to the future of capital is in some ways greater than ever. (For example, is a radical labor party to be built up and change our legal institutions so as to put in force a share-the-wealth program? Are the world's demagogues going to spend so much that further "devaluations" or capital levies will be enforced?)

Third, we are in that phase of a "business cycle" in which people tend to shift out of investments in bonds and to get into speculations in stocks. This phase is marked by an increase in the upward trend of commodity prices. It also tends to emphasize uncertainties in the minds of investors, since the more farsighted foresee the inevitable recession.

Thus, at the same time that people value a fixed sum of money less highly, the income that may be made by speculation is increased.

* * *

It certainly is a fact now, as usual, that as cycle peaks are approached, we find people preferring stocks to bonds, and we find corporations shifting from straight bond issues to convertible bonds and to stock "rights."

* * *

I would say that, temporarily, the money income that it is possible to gain by speculation based on rising prices has increased. This makes the possible income to be made by putting $100 into stocks or commodities, not $3.50 a year, but say $6 a year. (Many will dream of doubling or trebling their money—while the dream lasts!) This pulls invested funds out of the bond market.

To the extent that there is lack of confidence on the part of investors in the use that the administration will make of their funds, they will get out of government bonds. Doubts as to its intentions as to the future value of the dollar, have the same effect.

Of course, the latter doubt tends to reduce the value of the principal, and so the price of the bond. Or, to put the matter another way, as commodity prices rise, there is a decrease in the present value of a fixed sum in the future.

Incidentally, all this change, manipulation and painful planlessness means a shorter life period for investments.

* * *

If you have any real reason to think that eventually the dollar's value (its purchasing power) will be brought back to the present level, you may hold high-grade bonds right through the days of decline that lie ahead. Otherwise, you will have to put your money to more speculative uses if you are to prevent a shrinkage in your wealth and income.

N. Y. LIFE REPORTS

Management Is Stressed

Stating that the management of a life insurance company is one of the great assets which never appears in its balance sheet, the New York Life Insurance Company's annual statement, which appears elsewhere in this newspaper, reverses the usual arrangement of a financial statement and gives prominent position to its board of directors.

It is the members of the board, the company states, who actively manage the New York Life and represent the company's 2,000,000 policyholders. The New York Life has always been a co-operative, non-profit, mutual company.

Every director serves on at least one of five committees which meet regularly to supervise the company's operations. The directors devote their experience, their judgment, and the necessary time to this work in the interest of the policyholders and their beneficiaries.

Assets of the New York Life Insurance Company on December 31, 1936, amounted to $2,404,236,413. According to the company's annual statement, 18.31 per cent of assets were in United States government direct, or fully guaranteed, bonds; 16.81 per cent in first mortgages on city properties, 15.02 per cent in policy loans, and 12.62 per cent in railroad bonds. State, county and municipal bonds aggregated 9.49 per cent of total assets, and public utility bonds 8.98 per cent, while real estate, including the company's home office building at 51 Madison avenue, New York city, amounted to 5.27 per cent.

The principal item in the company's liabilities is the insurance and annuity reserve which amounts to over $1,957,000,000. Dividends left with the company at interest exceed $100,0000,000 and the present value of future instalment payments is shown at over $97,000,000.

The company has a reserve for dividends payable to policyholders amounting to over $38,000,000, a Special Investment Reserve of $50,000,000 and surplus funds reserved for general contingencies exceeding $122,000,000.

Referring to the $199,000,000 paid or credited in 1936 to policyholders and beneficiaries, the company stated that "this is a measure of the company's service in a single year in providing human comfort and family protection." On December 31, 1936, there were 2,722,956 policies in force guaranteeing insurance protection of more than six and a half billion dollars.

Aviation Industry Is Progressing

In the transport end of the business revenue passenger miles flown increased 45 per cent. The volume of express handled increased 72 per cent, and 25 per cent more mail was carried.

In the manufacturing division of the aviation industry, the value of sales in 1936 showed an increase in aircraft, engines and spare parts of 85 per cent over 1935. Military aircraft and engines rose 181 per cent, while commercial aircraft and engines rose 27 per cent. The aviation manufacturing companies went into 1937 with a hundred million dollar backlog, representing a value about one-third greater than the total sales and deliveries last year.

"Delegation Run Riot"

AS AN INSTANCE of "Delegation Run Riot"—to quote Mr. Justice Cardozo in his opinion pronouncing the NRA unconstitutional—not less than 150 bills now pending before Congress have been prepared NOT under the dome of the Capitol but in the various departments of the government, and submitted directly to Congress.

This is, so far as the Senate is concerned, in direct contravention of a resolution adopted on January 16, 1908, which says:

"THAT NO COMMUNICATIONS FROM HEADS OF DEPARTMENTS, COMMISSIONERS, CHIEFS OF BUREAUS, OR OTHER EXECUTIVE OFFICERS, EXCEPT WHEN AUTHORIZED OR REQUIRED BY LAW, OR WHEN MADE IN RESPONSE TO A RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE, WILL BE RECEIVED BY THE SENATE UNLESS SUCH COMMUNICATIONS SHALL BE TRANSMITTED TO THE SENATE BY THE PRESIDENT."

The mantle of the constitutional privilege of the President seems to have fallen on "EVERY BUREAUCRAT IN TOWN," to quote the words of George Rothwell Brown, Washington correspondent for the Hearst papers.

The Constitution says that Congress has the right alone to originate legislation, with recommendations from time to time by the President.

With every fresh proof of the abdication of Congress of its constitutional prerogatives the American system of government is weakened by just so much and a step is taken in the direction of BUREAUCRATIC DICTATORSHIP.

Sales Tax Obituary

BOSTON Retail Board President P. A. O'Connell, a speaker before the legislative Committee on Taxation, voiced what should be the obituary of the sales tax proposal in Massachusetts.

Declared President O'Connell:

That is a fact. The experience of the poor in States which foolishly tried this means of raising revenue proves it.

Two cents on the dollar may not mean much to a millionaire, but they can be everything if they happen to be a man's last two cents.

Everybody knows prices are higher today than they were a year ago. Rising Federal and State taxes, deliberate governmental stimulation and soaring production costs have combined to make them higher.

Consequently thousands of families in Massachusetts have all they can do to buy adequate food, fuel and clothing with prices at their PRESENT LEVEL.

And if they rise still higher, as the sales tax scheme will make them, these families must EAT LESS, BURN LESS and WEAR LESS.

They are the tax's chief targets.

They are the principal victims.

It would seem that the people of this State who work for small wages have sacrificed enough during the depression without their elected Representatives and Senators obliging them to sacrifice more.

Thoughtful solons who realize that will doom the sales tax.

B. U. Law Dean Sees Danger

No fewer than three novels have been written about them in recent weeks. They were resurrected for a motion picture. And now they are in public affairs.

Latest to employ them is Dr. Melvin M. Johnson, dean of the Boston University Law School.

He compares Early Salem's good intentions in stamping out witchcraft with the more timely good intentions of President Roosevelt in seeking to make over the Supreme Court.

And this is how Dr. Johnson explains his comparison:

"The only time we, in New England, have ever tried a tribunal responsive to the immediate popular will was in Colonial days, when our forbears set up a court which put poor innocent, old and young men and women to death as witches.

"Those who created these witchcraft courts were just as sincere and honest as the President is now; and just as mistaken."

Dr. Johnson does not fear for the present, even though Mr. Roosevelt may succeed in making the Supreme Court submissive to his will.

It is what may happen in the future that he fears.

As a historian, he believes it possible that a less kindly President with regal ambitions might years hence try to follow the Roosevelt precedent and make the once-proud court his obedient servant.

Women Fight Cancer

That is the slogan and purpose of one of the worthiest campaigns ever conducted in New England.

It will begin on Sunday, March 21, and continue a week under the leadership of the American Society for the Control of Cancer and numerous co-operating organizations.

To every home in this vast section the campaign's message will go, and these important facts about the disease told:

That cancer in its early stages IS CURABLE.

That IGNORANCE and FEAR are the malady's chief aides.

That 60,000 of the 145,000 victims of last year could have been saved by PROMPT and PROPER care.

Every New England woman should do her part to assist the war on cancer. It can and will succeed if everyone helps.

There is before us as inspiration the great progress that has been made in recent years in the fight against tuberculosis.

This disease for centuries was the principal enemy of human life, tens of thousands dying from it, hardly a single family escaping its ravages.

But in the past generation, because of public education and medical progress, tuberculosis has been forced down to seventh place on the list of the nation's death dealers.

Cancer, too, can be overcome, and campaigns like the one planned for New England will do it.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

New York, March 11—Alfred Vanderbilt continues out front as about the most popular of the generation's rich young bloods. A keen judge of horseflesh, his stables have won many ribbons and he has otherwise proved a thoroughgoing sportsman. Especially in defeat, which is the real test.

O. O. McIntyre

As the most desirable of the current beaux, he plays the field and is not very susceptible to acquisitive mamas. One evening he may squire a cutie of the cabarets and the next a debutante in full flower. He is devoted to his mother, the beauteous Margaret Emerson.

Head waiters like him because of his unobtrusive manner in contrast to the hoop-la of the usual rich playboys. He is a teetotaler. He is already in possession of many millions. But to his cronies he remains "Al." He is a great favorite among stablemen and jockeys, who usually hate owners.

His younger brother, George, is also immensely liked. He is a globe trotter of distinction and has invaded many lost places of the world for his motion picture experiments. And to collect scientific data. He also enjoys seeing the town by gaslight now and then.

One of New York's most ambitious and prolific dinner and luncheon tossers is the buxom Madame Alma Claybergh, formerly of the opera. There's scarcely a week she does not give several elaborate affairs for the headline crowds. A close friend of the President's mother, she is also one of the less than half a dozen who can flush the elusive Theodore Dreiser out of his cloister for the evening—all togged out in dinner jacket and sulking like a sore-footed bear.

Buster West, the loose jointed dancer, is going in for chicken farming on a major scale. He has a hatchery in New Hampshire, and sends a large shipment of eggs to market daily. Also a dozen now and then to special friends. When his nimble legs lose their limber he is not going to be in line for a benefit. Already his experiment is on the profit side. Buster has been on the stage almost all his life. Beginning, like Buster Keaton, in a knockabout turn with his father in which he was flung around like a feather in a gale. He's been a clean living lad and a credit to his calling.

A restaurant head waiter has shown me some samples of doodling he has salvaged from tables after the departure of guests. Doodling is a grandma term, recently revived in a Gary Cooper film, for absent minded pencil scribbling on the backs of menus, table cloths, napkins or what have you. Herbert Bayard Swope is a doodler. As are Jules Bache, Mervwyn LeRoy, John Held, Jr., Charles V. MacArthur and others. Vincent Lopez is such a confirmed doodler that he recently made it the theme of a novelty song.

This column has been appearing in a Honolulu paper for many years. A checkup recently showed that per population more letters were received from the Hawaiian capital than any other city on the syndicate list, save Los Angeles. The psychology for what seems epistolary acclaim is in reality a phase of longing. People far from home aching for a contact with someone amid the old scenes.

The Carnegie is a bijou movie where many of the upper bracket crowds see the hit films after they have made the rounds of the colossal cinemas. In this way they do not have to rub elbows with hoi polloi. At the Carnegie curb the other night I saw a mighty evidence of returning good times—a limousine with both liveried chauffeur and footman on the front seat. Each expressing frozen-face grandeur.

One of the brash boys in the snack bars conscious of admiring lorgnetted glances from a rather venerable number facing him across the room finally got a bit restless. And when it continued he had the waiter take the dowager this impertinent note:

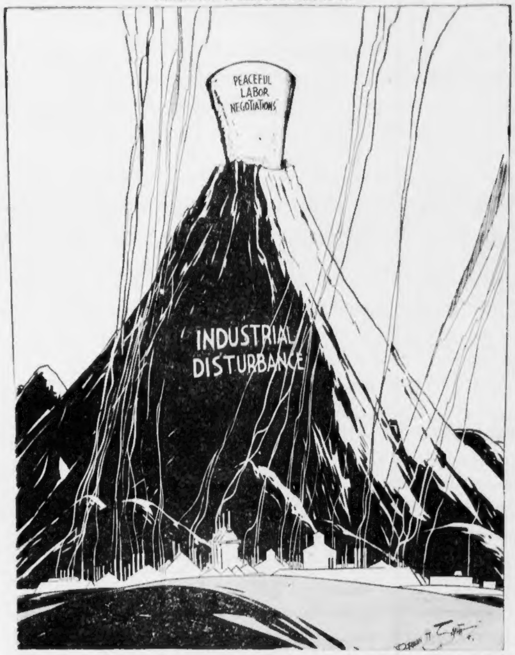
Peaceful Negotiations Pay

Copyright, 1937, by American Newspapers, Inc.



Peaceful labor negotiations enable workers and employers to adjust their differences without stopping production or wages.

The settlement was fair to all and was accomplished without waste of time and without injury to anyone.

Every labor dispute can be BETTER settled by this method.

Industrial disturbances are neither necessary nor helpful.

Peaceful negotiation of issues, with arbitration by an impartial authority when necessary, should always PRECEDE strikes and will always PREVENT strikes.

That's That -:- By Bruce Gustin

Over the last week-end, at least 72 persons are reported to have been killed by automobiles in the United States. One shameful thing about that is the wanton, needless waste of human life. Carelessness, not any inherent deadliness in motor vehicles, was responsible for most of this death toll. MOST AUTOMOBILE "ACCIDENTS" ARE AVOIDABLE.

According to an insurance company survey, 93.1 per cent of the motor vehicles involved in fatal "accidents" in the United States last year, and 95 per cent of those involved in non-fatal "accidents" were in apparently good condition. That goes to show human defects are more than nine times as deadly as faulty brakes, defective steering mechanism, glaring headlights, blowouts and slippery roads all put together.

Military power, more than economic security for the masses, is the aim of the latest program launched by the Fascists in Italy. Preference in employment is to be given heads of large families, and their wages are to be increased in proportion to the number of children they contribute to the nation. Salaries are to be fixed on a family rather than an individual basis. To encourage marriages, loans are to be made, dowries are to be provided for brides and insurance is to be furnished young workmen. This is an adaptation of a security system which was used in Peru 400 years ago.

Under the rule of the Incas in Peru, every male was compelled to marry when he reached a certain age. The community in which he lived had to furnish him and his bride with a house and tract of land sufficient for their maintenance. For each child born to them they received additional land, the amount allowed for a son being double that for a daughter. At the end of each year there was a redistribution of land, the amount allotted to each family being increased or decreased according to changes in the size of the family. The great mass of people owned no land; all they had was the use of it.

In that they were assured of food and shelter, the Peruvians had economic security, but as Prescott commented in his history of "The Conquest of Peru":

"The great hardship in the case of the Peruvian was he could not better his condition. However industrious, he could not add a rod to his own possessions nor advance himself one hair's breadth in the social scale. The great and universal motive to honest industry, that of bettering one's lot, was lost upon him. The great law of human progress was not for him. He was born, so he was to die. Without money, with little property of any kind, he paid his taxes in labor. No man could be rich, no man could be poor in Peru, but all might and did enjoy a competence."

The ancient Peruvian concept of economic security does not measure up to the modern American idea. The rank and file of the American people are not satisfied with assurance they always will have shelter, enough to eat, the bare necessities of life, and the privilege of trying to better their station in life. They don't want to be held down. And it is because they have not been held down that the American people have created and more widely enjoyed greater prosperity than any other country ever has known.

All the supporters of the President's plan criticize some of the decisions the Supreme Court has made. They all insist the Federal Government does have authority which the Supreme Court says it does not have over industry, agriculture and labor. They contend the Supreme Court's interpretation of the Constitution is old-fashioned and wrong. They make it plain they are for the President's plan because they think the appointment of younger judges will change the court's viewpoint. But they cannot count on this unless they know in advance how the new judges are going to interpret the Constitution. You can't tell from a man's age whether he is a liberal or a reactionary.

The Marry-Go-Round

By Helen Rowland

Reno would suffer a frightful depression if men fell in love when they were rational and cool-headed, instead of in moments of vertigo or temporary dementia.

Nothing makes a woman feel so alluringly "feminine" as to hear herself rustle when she walks in one of the new taffeta petticoats.

A nice boy can't be too careful, now that the dangerous season is at hand and every other girl he meets is after just one thing—a WEDDING RING!

All good business women are cautious in their investments; but it's pretty hard to convince one of them that the money spent for facials and permanents doesn't draw the most interest.

When love dies, a woman likes to give it a beautiful burial; but the man always insists on spoiling everything by bringing the "next woman" to the funeral.

You can never tell what will break a woman's heart or get her goat. But calling her by an unflattering nickname will frequently do both.

Love is that sudden revulsion of feeling which makes a man imagine that one kind of girl can make him happy for life—simply because he happens to be temporarily bored with the other kind.

'Yure's Truly'

By Bruce Gustin

Vienna, Austria
March 11

Sen. Pat Harrison
c/o Congress
Washington, U. S. A.

Dear Mr. Senator:

I am the father of 2 children, age 5 and 7, my wife's name is Mabel, and I wisht you would balanse the U. S. Buggit, because I want to die off and leave them well fixed.

I am setting here in Vienna, and I just found out what nonbalansing the Buggit done to Austria. I was talkin to a Vienna man and kidding him about the funny money they got in Europe. "Your money is sure funny," I says to him. "You got to carry about 5 lbs. of it to buy a Sigar."

THE CASH VANISHED

"Our money is lighter now than it used to be," he says. "I remember when I had a Insurance policy worth $6000, and then we had Inflation and I only got back 60c."

He told me that Inflation busted these Austrian folks so bad that they would of ate their shoes if they hadn't of been too weak to swallow. I ast him how it happened, and he says, "Well, our Govt was in Debt very heavy."

"So is ours," I says, "that is the way us Americans is getting prosprous."

"After that," he says, "Our Govt borrowed too much on Bonds, & taxed all the rich folks till there wasen't none left. And then prises begun to go up."

"That's fine," I says, "that's just what we're doing to get prosprous in America. But what cauzed your Inflation?" I says.

"I just told you," he says. "We got un-balansed and way in Debt, and prises begun to go up, and the next thing we knowed we was inflated to the skys."

"SERVED HIM RITE"

"I sort of laughed, Mr. Senator, and I told him it served him rite for being born in one of these dumb Forrin countrys. But I been sort of thinking since then. Our good old U. S. dollar is the best old thing on earth, but couldn't it be inflated as easy as this crazy Austrian money?"

If so, Congress better do something about the Buggit in a hurry, or we might wake up some day and find ourself on the way to disaster with Europe.

Yure's truely,

Gems and Coronation

The Human Side of the News

By Edwin C. Hill

Sales of diamonds in England in 1932 equalled $10,000,000. It is estimated that this year the purchase will amount to $50,000,000.

Edwin C. Hill

Since March 1, there has been a spectacular rise in diamond shares on the London market. Old Dame Britannia, getting ready to step out for the Coronation, is given as the explanation.

Only the supernal glitter of this immemorial symbol of power and dominion can mark her new regal complacency and "a happy issue out of our afflictions," as the Anglican liturgy has it. Sons and daughters of empire will rise and shine.

Strangely and fantastically interwoven is the fabric of modern civilization. The diamond markets of the world respond to the up-take in Britain loosed by an archaic ritual. In the inter-action of forces of the old world and the new, the lowly "bort" is again active and important.

The "bort" is the diamond for deep drilling, wire-drawing equipment, oil-fired furnaces and the cutting of the hardest steel alloys, including nickel. There is the steel matrix and the dynamics of the empire, without which the machines to build and sustain would be impossible.

TRADITIONS PREVAIL

There isn't a first-class couturier's shop in Paris that isn't working overtime on Coronation gowns. In Paris, and London's West End, there are artificers of line and drape as skillful as Renaissance sculptors, seeking some subtle essence of grace and distinction.

In the Macclesfield district old masters of the loom are being summoned from their retirement to work a wizardry of weaving such as they achieved for Victoria's Golden Jubilee.

England has not forgotten that her looms made the empire. We hear these days that man is subjugated to the machine; that it moulds our culture, conditions our living, reshapes our lives.

Here are machines obeying human compulsions which were hoary with age when mobs wrecked the first power loom in England because it would displace weavers.

It was in 1377 that King John set up the decree which, in meticulous detail, will govern the Coronation ceremony of May 12. Forty yards of crimson velvet for the Lord High Chamberlain, who robed the king, was one of the first stipulations. The earlier Lord Ancaster's velvet was made by hand looms. The British Court of Claims, sitting in the wigs and gowns it has worn for centuries, solemnly awarded the crimson velvet to Lord Ancaster of today.

OLD LAW OBEYED

The fact that machines, rather than human hands, make the velvet does not in the least affect the court's command, or what is requisite and fitting when Britain crowns a king. The fourteenth century Ancaster, and many of his heirs and assigns, were awarded the king's nightgown for dressing him in "shirt, stockings and drawers."

The present Lord Ancaster will get, instead, King George's pajamas, an obviously necessary compromise. But only in these enforced minor details does the Court of Claims allow the slightest deviation from the ancient law.

Getting back to the diamonds, India will be represented at the Coronation by native princes with eye-filling displays of historic jewels. And that is a reminder that the moment the price of gold was raised throughout the world, old market-wise India became the world's most important buyer of diamonds. Much of its gold was thus converted.

Throughout centuries of price fluctuations, diamonds have remained a fairly safe repository of value, and never has their price been fixed by law or fiat. Compact, easily concealed, easily transportable, they have been a dependable reflex of world prosperity, rising in price and gaining in sale in active areas, and declining, somewhat but never disastrously, in sluggish ones.

In America, quite independently of the Coronation, say the experts they are having a remarkable revival. For stones of one carat or more the demand has been rising and insistent during the last two years. Prices have increased from 20 to 30 per cent during the past year.

Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

I gulped, sniffled, pressed a tear-swollen, young nose against the icy pane, gloomed miserably at the gathering snow. It was March, 1903. I was a bride of 19—my family and friends 3000 miles away in my beloved California.

Elsie Robinson

There were no sun-drenched palms in the Vermont scene before me—no whooping cowboys, fandango dancers, tinkling guitars. Everything was grim and gray, and I was "a grown-up, married woman," with youth and all its sweet, gay urgencies forever put aside.

Fandango dancers, indeed! I had, instead, a loathed daily dozen of "coal oil" lamps to shine and fill . . . bi-weekly bread baking . . . endless miles of hand hemming . . . countless quarts of "put up" preserves and pickles . . . acres of splintery floors to scrub, "dish-water hands," not yet being recognized as legitimate grounds for divorce.

Though married into a wealthy clan, my allowance for food and clothing was $40 per month. My wardrobe was a far cry from the gypsy dress of frontier promenades. Gray chambray for week days—black taffeta for Sundays—aprons always. Two new outfits per year—spring and winter.

Coats lasted three seasons—blouses were patched under the arms—shoes repeatedly resoled. Amusements were limited to church "sociables," occasional family picnics.

A MONOTONOUS LIFE

Afternoons, one sat on the verandah and darned. Not a highly hilarious program for a 19-year-old maverick newly come from roundups and other high-powered ructions.

Unless someone died, had a baby, or the good fortune to go crazy, this program never varied. Looking back at the bleak blur of years between 19 and 29, there was nothing to distinguish one day from the other save my personal noise making. This, however, was at times quite adequate.

The point of all these personal reminiscences is that they weren't really personal at all, but the general lot—expected and accepted. My individual career may have been drearier than some, but young America everywhere in those days expected hard going, slim pickings.

There were, of course, pretty clothes to be had, and fortunate young people who—incredible!—both felt and acted skittish after 20. The rest of us envied these darlings of the gods—loathed the drudgery of our own dreary days.

But there was little we could do about it, particularly if we were females. For life was like that. That was what growing up and being married meant 30 years ago in America, and you were just out of luck if you tried to fight the system.

I am broadcasting these facts because I suspect we need to be reminded of them, and perhaps they hold the answer to what ails the country in general. We have been through five mighty fretty years, and a little scab licking is to be expected, even amongst the bravest.

THE PATH TO SUCCESS

But never in my knowledge has there been such widespread and unashamed surrender to self-pity amongst young people as there is today . . . such profound conviction that they are getting the worst deal ever inflicted on any generation . . . or such a fierce clamor that everybody should do something about it immediately.

I haven't the slightest expectation that anyone under 30 is going to believe a word of the following, but I'm going to say it at any rate—

The notion that God is picking on your generation Extra Special is plain phooey and nothing else but. Young people have always had a tough time getting a start, in every land, in every period.

Jobs have always been chancy . . . futures uncertain . . . bosses pesty . . . beginnings meager. But that's life.

That's the way nature develops worth-whiles, eliminates the not-so-hots. And if you can't take it, you're just a sissy.

America wasn't built by people with special privileges. It was organized by spunky, sensible human beings who took what they could get and made the most of it, without expecting anyone to give 'em a bonus and kiss the bumps.

And I'm betting that unless we stop crying over ourselves and get back to that original attitude, this nation is going to ruin in a hand basket pronto.

Wise Words

Modernists may be right in urging girls to assert their "rights" and do the "proposing." But you'll find proposing to a man like working a rowing-machine: it's wonderful practice — but where do you GET?

A gentleman, according to a masculine cynic, is one who uses the butter knife when he breakfasts alone at home.
